Germany Claims Recovery of Line in Flanders

BERLIN WAR OFFICE ANNOUNCES GAIN IN THE MIGHTY BATTLE

The British Report Asserts That the Ground Regained in German Counter Attack Is Again Taken.

RAIN HAS INTERFERED WITH MOVEMENTS

Berlin, Aug. 2.—The German battle line in Flanders has been moved forward as a result of successful counter attacks, army headquarters announced today.

The hostile attacking forces effected no gains and suffered heavy losses in the face of the unweakened German defensive, it is declared.

THE BRITISH CLAIM.

London, Aug. 2.—British forces today launched a counter attack against the German positions in Flanders. General Sir Douglas Haig reports that the British troops completely re-established their line in the neighborhood of the Roulers-Ypres railway, some territory in which area the Germans yesterday had regained.

KAISER SENDS GREETINGS.

Berlin, Aug. 2.—Emperor William, according to an official statement today telegraphed to Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria his congratulations on the great success of the German fourth army, July 31, "whereby the vehement Anglo-French attack intended to conquer the coast of Flanders failed."

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

British Front in France and Belgium, Aug. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)

Summary of the Day's War News

Germany is battling with a desperation probably unparalleled in the war to hold her lines in Flanders against the combined Anglo-French attack. Notwithstanding the heavy handicap which the atrocious weather has imposed on them however, the entente forces have made good their most important gains and apparently are only awaiting clearing conditions to blast their way further into the Teutonic front.

The boasts of successful resistance to the entente thrust that have come from the Berlin war office were based as usual on the unwarranted assumption that an attempt had been made to break through and upon the fact that at one or two points the German

A REGISTRATION LIST IS MISSING IN INDIANAPOLIS

Indianapolis, Aug. 2.—The official list of registrants in Marion county outside of Indianapolis, containing 2,691 names, disappeared last night from the office of Hugh McK. Landon, chairman of the exemption board for that division. The reported theft of the numbers and names today to the federal authorities here and Jesse Eschbach, state conscription officer. The list was being used to prepare other lists, and out of it was being prepared the list for posting to call the first men for examination.

The authorities had very little to say about the matter but it is said they do not believe the list was taken by any person to escape being called for exam-

Washington, Aug. 2.—National prohibition by constitutional amendment was hung up in the house today by the prohibition leaders themselves. The resolution to submit the proposal to the states, passed yesterday by the senate, was put out of the program for the present session and will not come up until the regular session in December.

Plans to reconvene the democratic caucus and reverse its decision to consider only war legislation were abandoned because it was believed delaying action until the next session will help the prohibition cause.

The resolution passed the senate late yesterday by a vote of 65 to 20, eight more than the necessary two-thirds, and today house dry leaders were preparing to press for its prompt consideration there. They claim it will pass. The only change made in the resolution was the adoption of an

IMOGENE IMPROVES BUT STILL SUFFERS

Imogene Myers, the 15-year-old girl who attempted suicide by swallowing several bichloride of mercury tablets Tuesday evening, shows some improvement at St. Joseph's hospital, where she is a patient. However, she is still suffering much pain. It is said that she no longer expresses a hope that she will die but trusts that she will recover. She was the prosecuting witness in the case in which John H. (Sammy) Koehler was found guilty of criminally assaulting her.

City Council Offers Reward of $1,000 for One of the Lynchers.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 2.—The citizens of Butte spent a restless night owing to rumors of wholesale lynchings and threatened outbreaks by the comrades of Frank Little, Industrial Worker of the World leader, who was dragged from his hotel by a party of seven and hanged to a railroad bridge early yesterday.

The city council, at the request of Mayor W. H. Maloney, voted to offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of any one of the slayers of the I. W. W. leader.

District Attorney B. K. Wheeler declared that he had referred reports of some of Little's speeches here, alleged to be seditious in character, to the attorney general for an opinion. He was awaiting a decision before ordering Little's arrest, he explained, as he was not positive that Little had violated any federal statute.

The Metal Mine Workers' union requested Sheriff John K. O'Rourke to appoint 1,000 members of the union special deputies to aid in preserving peace. This the sheriff declined to do, stating that he felt it would be unwise to arm so many.

Another Comes Thursday to Take Up Task at Lake
James.

Bent upon the task of recovering the body of Edward Huber, of this city, who was drowned in Lake James last Sunday, a diver from the Great Lakes Towing station, at Toledo, also found a watery grave.

Just an hour before he was to have started for Angola to take up the big task he fell off a tug boat at Toledo and was drowned. His body was recovered at 2 o'clock Thursday morning. Manager Fletcher, of the towing station, imparted this information in a telegram to George Huber, the father of the boy who is drowned.

In the same message Mr. Huber was informed that another diver would arrive at Lake James some time Thursday morning to take up the job of finding the corpse.

Several men who have been at the lake since the drowning, assisting in the work of searching for the body, state that it will be a hard matter even for the diver to find the body.

The young man drowned just on the edge of the "step-off." The bottom

LONDON PAPER REASSERTS ITS WAR PLOT TALE

London, Aug. 2.—The Times referring to the official statement by the German government yesterday denying a report that a conference was held in the presence of the emperor at Potsdam July 5, 1914, at which a plan was proposed to let loose the war, says the authority whereon its statement was made prevents it from attaching the slightest importance to the German denial, and declares that the assertion that Germany abstained from intervention in the drafting of the Austrian ultimatum is notoriously false.

BOARDS MEET SATURDAY

Governor Asked to Appoint
Man to Represent the Government.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 2.—A meeting of the four district conscription appeal boards in Indiana, to be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, was called today by Jesse Eschbach, state conscription officer. The purpose of the meeting is to clear up all misunderstandings or doubts as to the duties of the boards.

Governor Goodrich has been asked by the government to appoint a man in each district to represent the government in appeals and other matters before the boards. Part of their duties will be to act as challengers in exemption cases appealed to the district boards.

Examination of men called for the army began here today in two of the ten divisions of the city. Of the first twelve examined in two divisions two were found to be in military service already, two failed to pass the physical examination and each of the others filed a claim for exemption. J. Roy Connell, the first man examined in the sixth district, came all the way from Wrightsville, Ga., to answer the call. He had gone to Georgia to live after he registered. He is married and has one child and after having passed the physical examination filed a claim for exemption.

All division boards in Indianapolis will be at work Monday.

ABLE TO CARE FOR 5 PER CENT BY FALL

There Will Be Reconstruction Hospitals for the Crippled.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Adequate provision for reconstruction hospitals where crippled soldiers may be fitted with artificial limbs and be re-educated in new trades is included in the army medical department's hospital program as outlined in a statement today.

This will not be undertaken, however, until after completion of the thirty-two hospitals at national army and national guard camps, enlargement of more than thirty hospitals at officers' training camps, establishment of at least two general hospitals at ports and of a number of special treatment institutions.

"The aim of the medical department," says the statement, "is to have hospital provision for 5 per cent of the enlisted force by fall and then to proceed to extend that to 10 per cent."

Abroad facilities for 20 per cent of the American expeditionary force will be provided.

"It is a fact that many men are entered in the records as 'sick' when they would no be so considered in civil life. The sick lists in the modern military camps of this country show under 1 per cent of cases which would be regarded as even moderately serious in civil life."

GERMAN NEWSPAPER CALLS IT FOLLY TO DISCOUNT AMERICA

Zurich, Aug. 2.—The military critics of the Munchener Neueste Nachrichten, regrets that British diplomacy has been more clever and successful than the German. He says it has been constantly making new allies until now there are 1,350,000,000 foes against Germany's 130,000,000, and declares that Great Britain's greatest gain is that it has made no mistakes.

EXPRESSES FAITH IN RUSSIAN ARMS

Petrograd, Aug. 2.—Foreign Minister Terestchenko has sent the following telegram to Russian diplomatists accredited to the allied powers:

"At a moment when new and grave misfortunes are threatening Russia, we consider it our duty to give to our allies who have shared with us the burden of trials in the past, a firm and definite explanation of our point of view regarding the conduct of the war."

"Reorganization in the face of the enemy of the entire governmental system could not be effected without disorders. Nevertheless, Russia, convinced there is no other means of safety, has continued in accord with the allies' common action on the front."

"Fully conscious of the difficulties of the task, Russia has taken up the burden of conducting active military operation during reconstruction of the army and the government. The offensive of our armies which was necessitated by a strategic situation encountered insurmountable obstacles on both fronts and in the interior of the country. The criminal propaganda of irresponsible elements was used by enemy agents and provoked a revolution in Petrograd. At the same time part of the troops on the front were seduced by the same propaganda, forgot their duty to the country and facilitated the enemy, piercing our front."

"The Russian people have been stirred by these events. Through the government created by the revolution and an unshakable will, the revolt was

American Training Camp in France, Wednesday, August 1.—General Pershing gave the American expeditionary force an example of the strenuous life by sweeping through nearly a dozen villages, where United States soldiers are living in France and visiting nearly all training centers which have been established from America's first contribution for the war for democracy.

It was not a cursory inspection. He went into minute details all along the line, questioned private soldiers, company cooks and various other ranks as to how things were going and what if anything could be done to improve the situation.

Found the Daily Routine Going.

General Pershing was expected Monday but delayed leaving Paris until late yesterday. He spent the night at a quiet little French village and reached the American army area early today. His visit was entirely informal and he found the forces just as he desired—engaged in their daily routine work and drill.

The general is also inspecting various places suggested for his field headquarters for he expects before long to remove from Paris nearer the troops in training. He will return to Paris late tomorrow.

CHIEF COOK AT ARMY CAMP HAD TALKED STRIKE

Hattiesburg, Miss., Aug. 2.—Nicholas Feigel, chief cook for a construction crew at the army training camp here, was under arrest today charged with being "dangerous and suspicious."

The arrest was made by county authorities at the request of officers of the construction company who claimed Feigel attempted to incite a strike among commissary employees. He will be turned over to the federal authorities.

Feigel stated that although he was a native of Germany he was a naturalized American citizen. He came here from St. Louis.

Barracks are being built here for the Indiana and Kentucky national guard groups.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

WOMEN WORKERS ARE RUSHING TO SHOPS

Applications for Jobs at Pennsy Begin Soon After Announcement.

The proposition to employ a number of women at the Pennsylvania shops promises to be successful. At noon today there had been twenty-four personal applications at the office of Master Mechanic E. E. Griest and double that number of telephonic inquiries. Applicants began inquiries at 5:30 last night, an hour or two after the Sentinel containing the story about the intention of the company to employ women was delivered to the subscribers, and it continued until a late hour last night. All of the applicants for positions had the appearance of good, honest people, who earnestly sought to find more remunerative employment than is open to them in other lines of work. None were put at work this morning, but arrangements were completed whereby they will start active duties tomorrow or at least early next week. The applicants kept the clerical forces in the master mechanic's office and at the office of General Foreman H. U. Diem, at the east car shops, busy taking their names and learning which line of work they desired or were particularly adapted for. The number of applicants who appeared at the office this afternoon was not available for publication, but it is said to be all and more than was expected.

Mr. Wort will leave shortly for Philadelphia to take up his new position as chief quartermaster of the interned German vessel, Koenig Wilhelm II, which was taken over at the order of President Wilson along with other German liners to augment American shipping.

The Koenig Wilhelm II, according to Wort, is the second largest of the German ships taken over by the U. S. A. It has a displacement of 19,500 tons and is 705 feet in length. The local recruiting officer will leave for the east immediately upon the arrival of his successor.

Word has been received by friends here of Capt. Billy Stewart, well known show man of this city, who is now with the Central States Amusement company from Toledo, that he is in charge of performances being given under the auspices of the Red Cross.

Capt. Stewart is now manager of the Big Forty Cages Jungle show and also has his own Five in One show with the same company. He is also the official announcer for the company.

The company plays in the north in the winter and in the south in the summer. The manager, J. T. Pinfield, is the proprietor of two shows and thirty concessions, says Capt. Stewart, besides three merry-go-rounds.

Capt. Stewart says that he will spend one more week in Toledo.

Wanted—Ten laborers, apply ready for work at Fort Wayne Overland Co., 124-130 West Washington.

EMPLOYEE OF AUBURN GAS PLANT INJURED

Fellow Workmen Struck Him in the Eye With Piece of Cinder.

Auburn, Ind., Aug. 2.—Mart Casselman, who is employed at the gas plant, will be unable to work for several days, owing to an injury to his eye, which he sustained Tuesday, when a cinder thrown by a fellow workman, struck him in the eye, badly injuring the member. His companion was endeavoring to attract his attention and tossed the cinder at his back, but Casselman turned just before it hit him and got it square in the eye. It was feared at first that the sight was injured, but the attending physician thinks now that it will be all right in a week or two.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK MORE ENCOURAGING

Due to Improved Crop Prospects and Other Favorable Factors.

"With improved crop prospects now added to other favorable factors, the business outlook for the next few months seems good," declares the monthly business letter just issued by the Old National bank.

The letter says that business failures throughout the country in June numbered 1,113 compared with 1,242 in May and 1,245 in June a year ago. The liabilities of the concerns failing in June totaled 16 million dollars compared with 13 million dollars in May and 10 million dollars in June, 1916.

"According to preliminary reports, the freight car situation has been appreciably bettered," the letter continues. "The net shortage of cars on June 30 was 77,000 compared with 107,000 on June 1 and 149,000 on May 1. There has been a net shortage on the first of every month since last September."

Van Wert, Ohio, Aug. 2.—A farewell demonstration was given here last evening for Captain John H. Morrison, of Company D, who has been ordered to report at Washington for special instruction in trench warfare. The probabilities are that he will be sent to France in a short time.

The farewell was given a short time before the arrival of the train which was to take Captain Morrison to the national capital.

Merchant, of the commission, will leave for Minneapolis within a few days. Other agents of the commission will go later to Chicago.

PLAN TO COPE WITH THREATENED INVASION

Patriotic Council Hears of the Presence of I. W. W.

Agents in City.

Securing reliable definite information that twenty-six agitators employed by the Industrial Workers of the World are in the city and have begun the work of placing stickers in the shops of several of the large manufacturing places, which invite men to become members, the Fort Wayne Council for Patriotic Service have begun plans to cope with the situation.

As long as the National Guardian remain in the city, assistance could be secured from them if it was deemed necessary. However, these units will soon be called away and as a protective measure a home guard will be organized and maintained for this purpose, should there be any violent outbreak.

Heads of some of the large plants in the city who are putting out government contract work, have become alarmed as the agitators are said to be exceptionally active. Sheriff George W. Gillie was asked to prepare for the situation and as a result he has lined up several hundred men who can be sworn in as special deputies within a very short time.

President Scheiman appointed a committee to further investigate the working of the I. W. W. agents.

It was also decided to ask the county council to make an appropriation for the expenses of the patriotic council, as this organization is in dire need of funds.

Receive Reply.

The Fort Wayne patriotic council Thursday received a reply from the State council in regard to the advisability of organizing a Home Guard. The communication follows:

"It would be impossible to overestimate the importance of this movement to organize a state guard, and we wish to urge the necessity of prompt action in this matter. The first step, that of appointing a county organizer of state guards, should be taken at once and we trust you will not longer delay in this.

"As soon as all the units of the present state militia or national guard have been drafted into federal service, we will no longer have within the state a body of troops subject to the call of our governor. It is of course, essential that there be such a body of troops within the state and subject to the call of the state at all times. It is impossible for any one to foretell complications that may arise during our present crisis, which would necessitate the use of troops within the borders of our own state. In order to be prepared for such an eventuality we are organized in the work of organizing the state guard.

"The war in which we are at present engaged is one of stupendous magnitude and one which may be long and drawn out. Should the war last for several years, as now seems possible, and even probable, the training which the members of the state guard will receive would be of inestimable value to the federal government. If the necessity should arise these troops could be drafted into the federal service, thus filling the depleted ranks of the armies following the Stars and Stripes in Europe. They would be trained and in excellent physical condition and would be sent to the front without the outlay of time and expense which would otherwise be necessary.

"Another point which we may well consider in this connection is the psychological effect that companies of the state guard drilling in every community in the state will have on the popular mind. The enthusiasm thus created and the increased interest in military affairs which will result in themselves be well worth the effort put forth.

"We will appreciate it very much if you will immediately appoint someone with

Columbia City Short Notes.
The First National bank has brought suit against former Capt. Luther H. Merts and others to compel settlement of $250 left at the bank as the proceeds of the sale of the property of defunct Company G. The complaint sets out that Merts, now first lieutenant in Battery D at Indianapolis, had asked that the money be paid to him, while S. N. Markley, former captain of the company, has asked that a part be paid him, to repay money advanced by him to meet company debts. There are four or five other creditors mentioned in the complaint, and the sum of the debts against the company far exceed the $250 residue.

John Watt, of Fort Wayne, traveling salesman for A. H. Perfect & Co., had a narrow escape Tuesday on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks between Inwood and Bourbon. THE BUTTE LYNCHING.

Peculiar atrocity invests the lynching of the I. W. W. lawyer, Little, at Butte, Mont., by a small mob of masked men styling themselves "the vigilantes." There was nothing in his conduct with which the law was not able to deal in salutary fashion. He had committed no crime of the sort usually held to account for heating the public mind to a state where summary vengeance alone seems to appease the popular wrath. He had done no murder, had outraged no woman, had not even stolen a horse. Indeed, there appears to have been no excited state of public feeling at all. The work of the mob was done quietly, with full deliberation and evidently in pursuit of carefully laid plans. It was a cool and calculated murder.

Little, like most of his ilk, had become an exceedingly undesirable citizen. It is said against him that in a public speech a short time before his death he had defamed soldiers of the United States as "Uncle Sam's scabs in uniform." That was a dangerous thing to have said in Butte or elsewhere in America at this time and if it had provoked an assault at the time of its utterance would have caused no surprise. But it was a treasonable remark that the federal government could and no doubt, in due time, would have dealt with adequately. The fact is that the west is getting tired of the agitations and conspiracies of the Industrial Workers of the World and in Butte some of the citizens determined to make an example of the most flagrant of the red-mouthed crew and they picked on Little as best answering their purpose to begin with.

The I. W. W. leaders there are now loud in their talk of vengeance and it may not be idle boasting done in the heat of rage. The I. W. W. radicals have no want of desperate spirit for desperate things. But if it comes to anything like a localized civil war the outcome of it can very easily be foreseen. The men of the west who are weary of the strife and plots engendered and set afoot by this organization will be found ready and waiting for whatever may come. There will be as hot a time as the I. W. W. may engage itself to meet.

Since the deportation of the I. W. W. agitators from Bisbee, Arizona, some weeks ago, threats have been freely made that reprisals would be taken. During the present week the president of the United States has been warned that in the event of failure to promptly release the deported men now interned in New Mexico under federal guard a great strike will be launched in the west and that a quarter of a million men will leave the harvests to destruction in the fields and still every sound of industry in the ore mines now of vital importance to the government. Lately the conspiracy to cripple the military power of the United States has been carried into the Michigan copper regions. Agitators for the organization have appeared in many sections not usually invaded by them to preach against the war, to counsel strikes, urge sabotage and stir rebellion against the new army law.

All this is a situation with which the federal government must at length come to deal. That it will do so with rigor need not be doubted. The action of the little mob in Butte increases the difficulty of the situation by giving the I. W. W. adherents a real occasion, a genuine grievance, whereas they had none before. There is no danger that the organization will be able to run Butte any more than it was able to run Bisbee and other Arizona mining camps. The majority of American workers are American and abominate and abhor the I. W. W. propaganda of violence, destruction and anarchic lawlessness. Yet there is the real threat of violent outbreaks and bloody clashes in the west.

PROHIBITION PASSES SENATE.

War or no war, John Barleycorn is to go. That is, John Barleycorn is to go if the national house of representatives can be persuaded ed in sufficient majority to follow the steps of the United States senate. The upper branch of congress has adopted the Sheppard resolution to submit the question of a bone-dry constitutional amendment to the states for ratification. In the present state of prohibition sentiment in the country as well as in congress and with the salutary example of the senate fresh before it, it is not greatly open to doubt that the house will concur in the resolution and send the big wet and dry issue to the states for final and complete settlement.

The resolution, as adopted by the senate, embodies a provision that the states must ratify the amendment within the period of the next six years or the resolution will become invalid. This provision is believed by good lawyers to be unconstitutional, but it has been accepted by the prohibition advocates in the senate as setting up no practical barrier to the due arrival of a dry nation. They are satisfied that three-fourths of the states can be got to ratify the amendment within the time limit. This doubtless is the fact. More than half the states already are either dry or have taken measures to become so. Indiana will pass in to the prohibition column next April. Other states, where prohibition sentiment has been a steadily rising tide for some time will doubtless join the dry procession when their legislatures meet again or go still farther and ratify the federal amendment to make abolition of the traffic total in all the land. That is the end to which the traffic has been headed for a good many years and with steadily increasing pace within the past decade. Since the beginning of the war radical restriction and even complete extinction of the drink traffic have been strongly urged and one expedient or the other has been fairly well assured since the food control bill, of which restriction is an essential part, went under debate in congress. If the house should make a prompt and affirmative disposition of the resolution just adopted by the senate it would perhaps not so much matter about the food bill drink restrictions save as war measures—which primarily they are meant to be—though whatever may serve to diminish the evil will be useful and welcome whenever it may come.

What the senate has done was forecasted a few years ago when a similar resolution was up, but failed because congress did not give it the required constitutional majority, though there were more votes for than against it. That was considered a great gain, a half-victory, indeed; and it was the jubilant prophecy of the temperance people that when congress should again vote upon such a resolution it would carry. Of course it is in the power of the house to defeat the matter, but that is regarded as quite improbable. If a federal amendment to make the United States of America bone-dry goes to the legislatures of the states for ratification it will be ratified and we do not believe that will be anything like six years in process.

INVITING AN INVASION.

There is nothing specially to the credit of the city council in its declination to assume responsibility for action on the gasoline tank issue. There should have been no want of frankness and dispatch to back away from a wrong position and to say that the council has too much sense to try to vindicate an error or confirm a blunder.

It is imaginable that if the state fire marshal, to whose authority the council has now deferred, should have come in here attempting to impose rules, regulations and procedures for local government that are properly the council's functions, there would have been a ready and indignant protest against invasions and usurpations. The council ought to settle this thing in the right way and have done with it, preserving the safe practices of a quarter of a century in the interest of public security against needless hazards.

It may be the council believes an opinion from the state fire marshal will be a good and perhaps necessary reinforcement of plain horse sense. In any event, it is well that since the council itself declines responsibility, the matter is to be determined at least by authority putatively of expert grade. We have no notion that the Indiana fire marshal will approve the establishment of unnecessary hazards of fire and explosion.

President Wilson has impressed the house and senate conferees with the wisdom of his views on food control and there will be just one controller and there will be no meddling commission and no smelling committee on expenditures for the war. That is making sure of a good deal that is quite right from a congress that displays a great penchant for getting wrong.

If the plans framed and approved in the senate of the United States do not miscarry old John Barleycorn has just six years in which to wind up his affairs, settle his doubtful estate and breathe his last. To a good many that will seem like an undeserved shrift.

The east is suffering a deal and sacrificing a lot to the brand of weather that has swept the land, but what is the loss in that section is the gain in every field where corn is growing.

"Fare, please! All the glad ones, and the sad ones; all the good ones, and the bad ones—get on here!"

SONNET—"THE DIVINE COMEDY."

(This sonnet is repeated. It appeared in the issue of Friday, July 27, in such form that we, who are its own fond parent, could scarcely recognize its face. The word "dew-be-sprent" was printed "dew-be-spent," one line was omitted, and a "corrected line" from another part of the col. put in its place. In other words this sonnet seemed to have come back from the front without having had the kind attentions of either surgeon or R. C. nurse. We pray that Jove or Juno or whatever god presides over the weary fingers of the line-man will come to our aid—we are spent with sweat, blood and tears; but the sonnet must have its chance!)

Off in my boyish hours all wonder-bound,
With livid cheek, and burning, rapid intent,
I read, O Dante! how thy soul was sent
To speak tormented shades whose horrid sound—
Or shrieks, or blasphemies—made thee to swoon
On long crags, nebulous, in groves where leant
Great Alp-high trees with hell's fire dew-be-sprent;
And reading thus I felt thy various wound.

With thee I drank thy nectar and despair;
With thee I laughed thy mad, sweet merriment;
Thy Beatrice I worshipped and found fair;
(For her I poured my spirit's lavishment;)—
In somberst hell or whitest heaven my prayer
Was but for strength to taste thy sacrament!

If your heart is hungry for happy haunts, and You're hunting for hollows and hills;
If you thirst for thrice a thousand things that will Thrust you through with thrills;
If your spirits are sad and sinking, and you're sighing
For sunlit scenes,
Then come to these classic cloisters where a cultured class convenes.
You can roam in these realms of rapture, or rest
In this rare retreat,
Where a fragrance of flowers fills you, and fountains fall at your feet;
And you greet with a rush the glittering glades,

SCANDALMONGERS.

(New York World.)

Senator Townsend of Michigan put the matter bluntly to his associates who all of a sudden have discovered that the advisory commission of the council of national defense is made up of abandoned wretches who can not be trusted.

"It is not the advisory commission we have to fear," he said; "it is the horde of vultures who have swooped down on Washington looking for fat contracts, and who, disappointed at not getting them, have become scandalmongers, vilifying those who have kept them from getting their clutches on the government's money; that's where these vile charges come from."

Parliamentary limitations made it impossible for Mr. Townsend to apply these remarks to various members of the senate, but he might have done so with absolute truth. The horde that has swooped down on Washington looking for fat contracts operates outside of that body. The scandalmongers who vilify the volunteers of the advisory commission do their no less contemptible work on the inside.

Although Mr. Townsend mentioned no names, if the people are interested in the persons that he had in mind they will find enlightenment in every debate and roll-call on the food control bill. The scandalmongers regularly speak and vote for the vultures at home and abroad, and they do not appear to care who knows it.

HIS GIBRALTAR!

John Barleycorn and Robin Hop

(Christian Science Monitor.)

The great twin brethren, John Barleycorn and Robin Hop, are making a tremendous effort to prevent the sentence of public opinion from being imposed upon them. Little by little the world is beginning to realize, however, that the evidence against the defendants is too strong. The plea that between them and all their friends they only caused the destruction of some 110,000,000 bushels of food in a year is regarded as rather aggravating the crime than otherwise. Most people, indeed, are under the impression that if they had better make no defense at all if they cannot make a better one than this. As a matter of fact, the United States spent, during the year ending the 30th of June, 1916, $2,438,037,985 in drink, whilst the revenue on liquor from all sources, during the same period, amounted to $247,453,543. Consequently, after obtaining this revenue, the country was still $2,190,584,442 to the bad. This would leave a handsome balance of $190,584,442 after subscribing the liberty loan over again, even if there were nothing more at stake than the mere waste of so huge a sum on mere sensual enjoyment. Indeed, as has been pointed out, the liquor traffic collects the national revenue from the consumer, and charges him one thousand per cent. commission for the service, which is equivalent to giving the collector of taxes one dollar for every ten cents he pays into the treasury.

This, however, is only the beginning of the national loss. The real national loss has to be considered not only the maintenance of prisons, in hospitals filled with diseases caused by drink, in the incalculable loss to the labor market, and above all in the gravity of the presence of a veritable nation of outcasts who have come to stand more and more beyond the borders of civilized society. A well known prison reformer pointed out not long since that one of the greatest difficulties of prison reform was the existence of a mass of human flotsam and jetsam thrown up every year on the streets as the prison doors were opened on them. The secret of reforming this flotsam and jetsam, he insisted, had not yet been discovered, but the fact that it was added to year by year was one of the dangers with which the social system was faced. Now it is a well known fact, vouched for by practically the whole body of those who have been interested in prison reform and prison life, that the cause of nearly all crime is drink. When, therefore, the drink bill of a nation has been paid, it constitutes only the veriest fraction of the cost of that drink to the nation.

In a few days from now the representatives of the United States in congress will be called upon to decide whether or no the prohibition amendment to the constitution shall be submitted to the states for ratification. The position of the country in the vanguard of progress will be judged largely by the result. The action of the house of representatives in passing the prohibition clauses in the food bill leaves little doubt as to the view of that house, and it is not believed that a different fate would have been reserved for the bill in the senate, if the obstructionists there had not prevented it from being brought to a vote. Indeed, if they had thought that they could defeat it, there would have been no need for obstruction. After all, however, if the prohibition clauses in the food bill had been passed into law, they would have lasted only for the period of the war. It may be that it would have been difficult to repeal them, but they would all the same have been subject to repeal at any moment. With national prohibition before the country, as an amendment to the constitution, the conditions will be very different. If the resolution passes congress, it will go to the states for confirmation, and it will not be removed from the consideration of the states until the required majority necessary to make a dry nation has been obtained. This will be more satisfactory in a way, than any other method. The fight will be made on a straight issue in which there will be no argument left to the anti-prohibitionist except the ancient and discredited one of calling names.

The defenders of drink have, indeed, a sense of humor very much on all fours with the criminal instinct of the wicked Baronet, in Ruddygore, which was to tie an unoffending person to the banisters and make faces at him. It is true that, as the ancient retainer said, it is simply rude—nothing more, but it is what the professors of drink are doing all the time by way of wit. You have only to look at the pictures in the comic papers to discover that. Every prohibitionist apparently wears a saddy frock coat, a tall silk hat considerably the worse for wear, trousers much too short, and black gloves with holes in the fingers. Everybody, of course, knows, by this time, what an exceedingly true picture this is of the prohibitionist, and everybody admires the courage of the comic papers endowed with such originality, and feels distinctly inclined to congratulate them on the indulgence of the readers who continue to subscribe for them. Now, if the editors of those papers and all the draftsmen who produce their drawings would only attend the saloons, late in the evening, they might supply the void with some pictures of the drink peddlers, those who have taken degrees in alcohol, pictures which would not be dependent upon imagination, but drawn from life.

It is, obviously, not for nothing that one of the most brilliant of the world's geniuses declared that much drinking meant little thinking. Seventeen centuries, indeed, before the Dean of St. Patrick's day, Pliny declared that fact had already passed into a proverb, "In proverbium cessit," declared, "sapientia vino obumbrari." The world, however, though it has freely quoted and is always unconsciously freely quoting the proverbial philosophers, from Solomon and Publius Syrus to George Herbert and F. Scott Fitzgerald, has not taken the hint. Nevertheless, Swift's day, a very serious matter to Swift, and so he computed, by the bottle, the exact condition of his host and fellow guests to transact business afterwards. Things may be said to have changed, indeed, to have improved, since Swift's day. Nevertheless, Swift's grim comment about the effect of drink on the thinkers remains as true today as when it was uttered. Men who are under the influence of the bottle are not in a condition to do the world's thinking. And even should they be able to do the world's thinking when they are sober, the whole of the time when they are not sober must be deducted from the sum total of their usefulness.

The world, however, is improving. It would be impossible today, for instance, for a British Prime Minister, accompanied by the attorney-general and the Lord Chancellor to gallop past an open turnpike gate.

"His reason drownd in Jenkinson's champagne," without paying the toll, and with a bullet from the turnpike keeper's blunderbuss whistling past his ears. Today, we have at least changed all that. In the city of Portland, Oregon, they have closed the office of the prohibition defender on the ground that prohibition has taken the bread out of his mouth, by leaving him practically nobody to defend. Here is another glorious example for John Barleycorn and Robin Hop to add to the instances of suffering, in the brief for their defense. Prohibition is putting an end to crime. Therefore, it should be at once suppressed, lest the out-of-work population be re-enforced by a whole army of unemployed, and holders of all such, at present unfortunately necessary, offices. In the words of a notice recently issued to the public by an association in support of the liquor interests, "The unhappiness and poverty of thousands of families dependent upon these interests" must be protected. Think of it!

Well! The protection will have come, no matter how much it may be decreed, but from national prohibition and not from John Barleycorn or Robin Hop.

U-BOAT BASES PRIZE OF BATTLE

(Indianapolis Star.)

The offensive launched by the British and French on the west front may alter the entire war situation within a very short time. It apparently is the intention to turn the right wing of the German army and to gain control of the Belgian shore line. The success of such an attempt would deprive Germany of its submarine bases at Zebruge and would hamper the kaiser's forces on land, on sea and in the air. The Belgian shore line held by the Germans is not more than thirty miles long. A drive of that distance would carry the allied army to the Holland border and shut Germany from access to the sea in that part of the world. A drive of even half the distance to Holland would place the allies in position to shell the submarine bases with long-range guns. And anything that would deprive the central powers of their bases along the Belgian coast would upset the entire U-boat program.

An allied success which would drive the Germans back from the coast would be a heavy blow to the kaiser's army and would mean a serious raid on Great Britain. Airmen under such conditions would be in a position to strike the British lines to get to Britain. That might be done, but those lines would have to be recrossed in getting back, and that, too, after allied aviators had been warned and were prepared for the returning raiders.

The tremendous importance attached to the strip of coast line they hold was shown when the Germans made their desperate attempts at getting through to Calais and extending and strengthening their grip on a sea outlet. The allies, of course, may not carry the present offensive to a complete success, any more than the Germans did, but the move apparently was carefully planned and is backed with unlimited munitions and men that give promise of important results.

OFFERS PRIZE FOR BEST DRILLED TEAM

Special Inducement for Members of Local Rifle Club.

Members of the Fort Wayne Rifle and Revolver club are taking greater interest in their drilling following the announcement by Fred Zollars, a member of the club, that he will offer a prize to the best drilled team of the organization. Captains of the teams are busy instructing their men in shooting and the competition will be keen.

Two more teams have been entered in the contest. The captains of these teams are O. E. Archibald, sharpshooter, and J. W. Patch, expert.

Notices will be sent out this week giving complete regulations for the match and practice will begin at once. The various captains have until the middle of September to instruct their men for the match.

A number of new men were enrolled at the meeting of the drill squad at Swinney park Wednesday evening. Capt. H. C. Bradley states that all men subject to conscription are welcome to drill with teams, regardless of whether they are members. The next drill is to be held at Swinney park Thursday evening at 7:15. The drill takes place west of the tennis courts.

famous drive on the old French fortress of Verdun. The battle lasted for several months, and the Germans gained some ground. But since then they have lost practically all that they gained at Verdun and more. That same year, on July 1, the French and the English forces began the equally famous Battle of the Somme, which lasted for five months, and which resulted in the Allies advancing their lines considerably.

"And all this time there was fighting in Russia and the Balkan states, too," added Jimmy.

"Yes," said Uncle Harry. "First the Russians made big gains in Galicia, which is in the eastern part of Austria but later they were driven back and the Germans and Austrians gained a lot of Russian territory. Germany also swept through Serbia, capturing thousands of prisoners and destroying much property. Later Germany repeated the performance in Rumania."

"But Germany has been defeated on the seas, hasn't she?" asked Helen.

"Yes, indeed," said Uncle Harry.

"After several battles the German warships that were at sea at the beginning of the war, were either destroyed or captured or driven into neutral ports, where they will stay until the end of the war. Even the submarine warfare, as wonderful and terrible as it has been, has not been a success, because it has failed to do what Germany said it would do—starve England."

"And then in March of this year came the biggest surprise of the war, and what may prove to be the most important development of the entire three years—the revolution in Russia. With the Czar overthrown and the principal officers of the imperial government, either dead or in prison, the last chance of Russia making a separate peace with Germany is gone. Russia is for universal and permanent peace, but not a separate peace and will go on fighting."

"Then the United States entered the war," said Joe.

"And finally—right on the heels of Russia overthrowing the autocracy of the Czar, the United States joined the Allies," said Uncle Harry.

"Now tell us about the losses in the war; you just said it was the greatest war in the history of the world," said Jimmy.

"Not this evening, folks, some other time," said Uncle Harry. "You remind me and I'll tell you about the losses in the war, both in men and dollars, and I'll tell you about the millions of soldiers who have been taken prisoners."

Editor's Note—Uncle Harry will be glad to answer inquiries, either in this column or by mail, provided letters are signed with the full name and address of the persons writing. The correspondents' names will not appear in the articles. Copyright 1917 by The M-C Syndicate Philadelphia, Pa.

Uncle Harry Gives A History of The Great War

"Who can tell me what happened three years ago today?" asked Uncle Harry. The members of the club hesitated for a moment, and then it seemed that all three spoke as one voice: "The war started!"

"Three years ago today—August 2, 1914," said Uncle Harry.

1914, the German army attacked France, and for more than 1,000 days the fighting has continued unceasingly," said Uncle Harry. "It has been the biggest, the most awful, the bloodiest and the most costly war in the history of the world. The most marvelous inventions of the human mind, which should have been used to help the human race, have been turned into instruments of destruction. Whole nations have been laid in waste. Thousands of cities have been blown off the face of the earth. Millions of men have been killed and millions were wounded. Billions upon billions of dollars have been spent, and—"

"Won't any good come of all this terrible loss?" asked Helen.

"Yes, children, not merely good, but great good, must come out of the war," said Uncle Harry, speaking slowly and seriously. "The world should have known how to settle its quarrels without resorting to war. But it is evident that the world did not. However, since August, 1914, the people who make up the world have learned their lesson. When peace comes you can rest assured that the people who have sacrificed so much during these three awful years are going to make sure that thereafter the power to make war and declare wars rests in their own hands and not in the hands of any small groups of men in any nation."

"Won't you tell us about the war?" asked Joe. "So many, many things have happened in the last three years."

"Not this evening, folks, some other time," said Uncle Harry. "You remind me and I'll tell you about the losses in the war, both in men and dollars, and I'll tell you about the millions of soldiers who have been taken prisoners."

KEEP BABY CLEAN AND COOL IT WILL ROB HOT SUMMER OF ITS TERRORS.

(BY BIDDY BYE.)

Hand Basin Better Than No Bath Tub.

The mother who keeps her baby clean and cool in hot weather robs summer of half of its terrors. A dip in the morning and a quick sponge bath before going to bed for the night will go a long way toward keeping baby well in July and August.

Because the house lacks a bath tub is no reason why baby should lack his bath. If it is not possible to obtain a small tub for baby's special use, anything which will hold both the baby and the water will do—a wash tub or boiler, a pail or hand bowl, provided they are carefully scrubbed.

Even in hot weather the baby's bath should be protected from drafts.

Never bathe a baby within an hour after feeding.

Hot water should never be added to the bath while the baby is in the tub.

Never leave a baby alone in the tub.

Wednesday from a visit in Toledo and other points.

Messrs. Arthur Moellering, Karl Rauch and Martin Pohlmeier have motored to

A baby should always have his own towels and wash cloth.

Dry the baby by patting with the towel. Never rub a baby's skin with a towel.

For prickly heat, use starch, soda or bran baths in place of the ordinary soap and water bath. A soda bath requires two table-spoonfuls of baking soda to a gallon of water. For a bran bath, tie the bran in a bag of cheesecloth, and squeeze it until the water becomes milky. For a starch bath, allow a cup of ordinary cooked laundry starch to a gallon of water.

If a baby objects to going into a tub, wrap him in a towel and lower him gradually into the water or spread a towel over the top of the tub so that he cannot see the water as he is lowered into it. Sometimes a baby will cease his objections if his face is not washed—until after the bath is over.

Never upset a baby's sensitive nervous system by force or harshness.

Save Garden Seeds for Next Year's Planting

By BIDDY BYE.

Among the commercial privileges which the United States has never taken from Europe is that of raising vegetable and flower seeds. Now the war makes importations of seed very small and the United States government is urging every gardener to save seed for next year's planting.

As the housewife usually gathers the vegetables for the table and cuts the flowers. It is up to her to save sufficient fine seed for her 1918 war garden.

LADY CRACK SHOT TEACHING BOSTON SOCIETY WOMEN TO GUARD COUNTRY

There is one general principle underlying the production of good vegetable seed, according to a government expert, and that is to save the seed from the best plants. Perhaps the little woman who superintends a backyard garden patch cannot improve on grandmother's way of marking her choice seed producers with a bit of red string.

But wise as was grandmother, she lacked some valuable information. She did not know a thing about the importance of selecting seed according to the character of the product desired. For instance, if early vegetables are wanted, the modern gardener saves from the plants which produce first. He does not sacrifice the first long looked for mess of peas to the table. If dwarf varieties are wanted, he saves seed from the shortest and not the tallest plants in the row.

It is not the amount but the careful choice of a little good seed which will make next year's war gardens a success. An ear of sweet corn and a handful of beans will serve to plant many a city plot, but it takes as much care to save a spoonful of the right seed as to save a pound of poor stuff.

All requests made by the government should be taken very seriously. They should not be looked upon as additional and unnecessary war burdens, but as suggestions concerning personal contributions to the national welfare.

SEPARATING EGGS.

Very often in separating the yolks of eggs from the whites, the yolks break and mix with the whites. When this happens, if a soft cloth be dipped in warm water, wrung dry, and a corner of it touched to the yolk, the latter will adhere to the cloth, and in this way be easily removed.

COMPANY B TO BE INSPECTED

Signal Corps Secures Use of the Concordia College Grounds for Drill.

DRUM CORPS WILL ARRIVE FRIDAY

Company E Will Endeavor to Secure Ball Park for Drilling.

Company B, signal corps, will have federal inspection Saturday night at 8 o'clock at Concordia college grounds. Lieutenant Drennan, of the Tenth infantry, U. S. A., will be the inspecting officer.

Permission has been secured by the officers of the company to use the Concordia college grounds as a drilling place, following the mobilization Sunday morning.

All members of the company are ordered to report at headquarters in the Old National bank building not later than 6:20 o'clock, eastern time. All non-resident members will be housed in the headquarters at Calhoun and Berry streets.

The battalion adjutant of the signal corps has engaged a drum corps composed partly of men from Indianapolis and others from Fort Wayne, who will lead the company in all the marches and parades in the city. This body of musicians will arrive in the city Friday evening.

Company E officers are now endeavoring to secure permission from the Fort Wayne Baseball association management to use the park as a drilling place and also secure a lease on Liberty hall. These two places had been secured by Battery B, but since they are to depart Sunday they will be of no use to this organization.

Regular Army.

Twenty-eight men were shipped from the Fort Wayne regular army receiving station Wednesday evening. Major Ryan stated that there would be at least seventy-five tonight, as the big bunch from Hammond are expected to arrive before evening.

Major Ryan has received official notification from Washington, D. C., that all men who enlisted before June 30 helped to reduce the number of men who are to be called in the first draft. All those men who have enlisted since that date will aid in bringing the number of men chosen for the second draft to a smaller number.

Examination Saturday.

The thirteen men who have not as yet undergone a physical examination are ordered to come to the court house Saturday for examination.

By previous orders Sunday was the time for the mobilization of this unit as well as all other national guard units. The order to come to Fort Benjamin Harrison therefore came unexpectedly and the officers and members of the battery who have been on duty at the court house in the interest of recruiting busied themselves at once in preparing for the departure and the housing of those men who do not reside in the city.

The battery will leave over the Lake Erie & Western railroad some time Sunday morning. It is believed that they will be in position to depart by 10 o'clock, standard time, as ordered. This is 11 o'clock, Fort Wayne time. Major Carter will arrive in the city Friday to aid in the preparations for departure.

Preparations have already begun by the patriotic council in giving the boys a turnout on the day of their departure. All members of the battery are requested to bring the following articles with them upon reporting Sunday morning: Tooth brush and paste, comb and brush, soap and towels, shaving outfit, needles and thread, several pairs of socks, extra suit of underwear, and extra shirt. Men are asked not to wear oxfords as they are injurious to the feet in drilling.

Battery B. Roster.

Following is a complete list of Battery B: Captain, Harry Clark; first lieutenant, Leonard P. Wood; second lieutenant, Henry H. Schaeffer; privates, Francis S. Adams, Walter C. Adams, Claude L. NONE ALLOWED TO MISS TEST

All Who Fail to Appear for Examination Will Be Passed.

NO MORE EXEMPTION BLANKS TO GO OUT

Rule That Physical Test Must Come First Will Be Kept.

Don't shirk from the physical examination. Comrade Counsel. If you do the draft board will mark you passed physically and will consider that you are ready for service.

Don't apply for your draft exemption affidavits now. The conscription boards will not give out any more of the exemption claim blanks until after physical tests have been made. The board members hold that such action is wasted at this time as the exemption subject may be rejected physically and no formal claims will be necessary.

Don't delay in taking action if you have registered elsewhere and wish to be examined in Fort Wayne. Persons will be allowed to be examined in other cities from those in which they are registered, but they must take out proper statements at once as the examination day is drawing nearer.

The first men in the city district No. 3 will be examined on Saturday. Examinations for district No. 1 will start Sunday and tests in the second district will begin on Monday.

More than 70 men a day will be examined in each of the districts, when the work starts. Four men will be examined at once. The physician on the board in each city section will have two or three assistants to aid in the work.

In each district several more men than the quota named will be taken. This is to allow for exemptions in case of successful appeals to higher boards. In the second district where 107 men are to be taken, 115 men will be selected by the draft board. About ten more men than are asked for will be named by the boards in other districts.

Must Give Notice.

Young men whose names were drawn early in the great lottery and who have since gone into army service must acknowledge their notice for appearance before the draft boards. They must file an affidavit for exemption on the grounds that they are already in military service.

A formal statement on the subject has been prepared by local boards as follows:

"A man who claims exemption because he has enlisted in the military or naval service of the United States may, when he is called, file his claim for exemption for that reason. If thereupon the board is of the opinion that there is reasonable ground for believing that such person is entitled to exemption on the grounds stated, the board will postpone the physical examination until after the claim shall have been heard.

"In support of such claim for exemption such person, however, must file the necessary affidavits within ten (10) days after the filing of claim for exemption, as provided in regulations 16 and 18.

"It appears, therefore, that men who have enlisted since registration must file their claim for exemption to avoid physical examination."

The object of the forced acknowledgment of such claim is to head off slackers. One of the district board members believes that one young man who has mailed a letter to the conscription officers, stating that he is in the army, is in Fort Wayne. The men say they have heard that the draft subject has never left the city and his military notice is a fake.

If the case is found to be as the board members suspect the young man will be handed over to police at once. He will later be charged with army desertion. Any attempt to evade the draft action will bring a desertion charge, conscription men show.

Above the entrance to the three district draft headquarters have been placed bright red and white banners which read, "Ye youth who enter here were called to make our world safe for democracy."

The patriotic decorations give no war enthusiasm to the young men who are calling at the draft board offices these days, however. Not a fellow has expressed his eagerness to face the Kaiser's wrath when he talked with board members.

"How do I get exemption?" is the chief question.

The exemption affidavits must be sworn to before a notary public, the draft law reads. Any notary public in the city has authority to swear citizens to the exemption statements. No notaries will be in the draft board office.

claim of exemption to file proof in support of your claim of exemption.

"(c) If you are found physically qualified and do not claim for exemption, or if you do not appear for physical examination, your name will be posted to the district board as one who was called for military service and was not exempted or discharged. On the eighth day after call, or within two days thereafter, copies of the list of persons so posted to the district boards will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in a place at the office of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to you at the address on your registration card.

"Therefore watch the notices posted ten days after the day you were called and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail."

SCHOOLS OPEN SEPTEMBER 4

Three New Recitation Rooms Are Being Made in High School.

COAL THIS YEAR TO COST $8,000 MORE

School Board Reorganizes and Elects A. L. Randall President.

Vacation days can soon be numbered without much trouble. All the public schools in the city will open on Tuesday morning, September 4, according to an announcement made by Prof. Justin N. Study, superintendent of the schools, Thursday morning.

In order to provide accommodations for the new scholars who will enter this term in the high school, two of the larger recitation rooms on the first and second floors of the building are being divided, which will add three recitation rooms to the already large number.

At the meeting of the school board Wednesday afternoon the yearly contract for coal was awarded to the Pioneer Coal company. There were several bidders.

The board postponed the letting of the contract for coal under the impression that there would be a decided drop in the price following the investigation of the coal commission. It was high time that the contract be awarded and consequently action had to be taken.

The coal for the public schools of the city will cost approximately $8,250 more this year than it did last year. Soft coal will cost the board $2.20 more a ton this year. Last year it required 3,640 tons of soft coal and 148 tons of hard coal to keep all the buildings in running condition.

At the meeting Wednesday afternoon the school board was reorganized. A. L. Randall was named president; Ernest W. Cook, secretary, and W. H. Shambaugh, treasurer.

HENRY WOULD PREFER HOSPITAL TREATMENT

Does Not Like Being Held for Fast Collecting Charges.

"Fleet Fingered" Harry Henry, as he is known in Indianapolis, his old home town, has branded Fort Wayne as "no good." They do not know how to treat a first-class crook in this place, Harry infers. He says he is sick and wants to go to the hospital. Instead he is held in an unsanitary cell by police.

Pennsylvania Railroad Detective James Huxar, captain of the Vandalia police out of Indianapolis, was in Fort Wayne Thursday to register claims against Henry. He tells that the man short-changed Byron Ewe, of Kansas City out of $220 a few weeks ago. He would take Henry back to Indianapolis for trial after local police are through with the fellow who has a jail record as long as a conscript's counting. Henry is held under heavy bond for trial on Monday.

HOTTEST DAYS OF EACH YEAR

July Holds Record for Maximum Heat During Past Years.

HUNDRED HIGHEST TEMPERATURES GIVEN

Weather Man Says It is Really Warmer Than Thermometer Shows.

In sadistic circles of men who have lived through scores of sultry, stifling summers, discussions augmented by the heat of the past few days as to the hottest days experienced in this section are many.

Many elderly men can remember the day back in the '30s when it was so hot that ducks and geese pulled out their own feathers in an effort to keep cool.

From the records kept at the government weather bureau station in the Shoff building it is discovered that the highest temperature ever recorded in Fort Wayne was 100 degrees. It is also found that the month of July holds the record for having the most maximum temperatures for the year.

The following table as compiled by Patrick McDonough shows the maximum temperatures since the year 1897:

Hoffman's Homer Saves Chiefs From a Shutout

Vandagriff Chased by Umpire After Argument Over Close Decision.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 2.—An extra inning contest which was featured by a pitching duel between Adams, of Evansville, and Allison, of Fort Wayne, was broken up in the eleventh when a single by Boelzie drove in Kibbie, breaking the tie and giving the Evans their second winning victory on Boelzie's field this season. Neither side was able to put a marker across until the seventh inning, when Hoffman landed on one of Adams' offerings for a circuit swat to deep center with none on, scoring the Chiefs' only run.

Manager Vandagriff was chased by Umpire Kuhn in the third inning, following an argument over a decision which Vandagriff could not see. The Evans were unable to knot the count until the ninth inning when Allison walked. Altematt, who advanced to second on Kibbie's sacrifice, Daubert followed with a single to center and Altematt came in with the tying run. Daubert was caught at second.

Both pitchers lightened up and neither threatened until the eleventh, when Hoffman came in to pitch. The Evans again got started. Altematt started the fireworks for the second time for the Evans after being hit by a pitched ball. He advanced a base on Kibbie's single past Breau. Daubert forced Altematt at third. Boelzie's single scored Kibbie and ended the contest.

The game was pronounced one of the hardest of the season seen on Boelzie's field but the Chiefs lacked the necessary punch to put over the victory. Allison established what is thought to be a record in making eleven assists. Allison also pitched a brilliant game but was unfortunate enough to allow Altematt a pass in the ninth inning which enabled the Evans to break into the run column and later take the game which would have belonged to Fort Wayne.

The Chiefs left here last night for Richmond, where they are scheduled to open tomorrow. It was not known who Manager Vandagriff would send in for slab duty against Richmond but it was thought that Higby would be the probable choice.

CAN'T COUNT HIM OUT—HONUS WAGNER HANDS CRITICS A JOLT BY SWATTING AT TERRIFIC RATE.

(By Paul Purman).
His obituary has been written and rewritten. Time and again he has been counted out.

His batting eye, they said, had disappeared. His feet, they mourned, had given way.

But John T. Wagner—Honus—foiled them all.

He is out there on the ball lot every day at first base or third and National league pitchers are learning that the batting eye which was supposed to be gone is almost as bright as in former years.

All of which recalls a statement Clark Griffith once made about batting eyes.

"It isn't the batting eye that counts," Griffith opined. "It's just the natural faculty of batting. There was never a pitcher who could fool natural batters like Wagner, Lajoie, Cap Anson, Dan Brouthers or Ed Deleahanty."

"Speed wouldn't stop them nor curves nor anything else a pitcher used. They would hit anything and they might go after a waste ball and hit it out of the lot just the same as they would one in the groove."

The statement was made when Griffith was asked his opinion of why a smart ball player like George McBride could never learn to hit.

"It isn't natural for McBride to hit and there are many like him, fellows like Scott of the Red Sox for instance. It is natural for some of the others."

Then Griffith made a startling statement. "I'll bet if old Cap Anson or Dan Brouthers could get some one to run to first for them they would bat better than 300 in either major league today."

All of which is open to question, of course, but which brings us back to the starting point, John T. Wagner.

Honus is in the middle of his twenty-first season and he is hitting well above .300, which might be used as an argument for Griffith's statements.

JOIE RAY HAS GREAT CHANCE TO SET TWO-MILE RECORD

Joie Ray, America's crack distance runner, will be entered in the A. A. U. games at St. Louis this summer, but just what event he will enter Ray has not yet decided on.

It is not likely he will enter the mile event for his failure at New York recently to come within striking distance of the world record probably will keep him out of that.

Should Ray decide to enter the two-mile event his performance will be watched with much interest as Ray probably will make every effort to beat the present record of 9:09 3-5 made in 1904 by Al Shrubbs.

Ray's best effort at the two mile distance is just two seconds slower than Shrubbs' great mile and John is confident that he will be able to overcome that handicap.

LEONARD-KILBANE SET NEW HIGH FIGHT COST RECORD

When Johnny Kilbane and Benny Leonard fought at Philadelphia a few nights ago they received more money for the length of time they were in the ring than any other pair of boxers in the history of the game.

Each of the champions received $11,692 for his end, a total of $23,384 for the bout. Lasting three rounds, the boxers' share per minute was $2,598, an unheard of amount.

The greatest purse ever offered two fighters was the $101,000 grab bag hung up for Jeffries and Johnson in 1910. The bout went fifteen rounds at the rate of $2,344 a minute. This is the only bout in ring history which even approximates the money received per minute by Leonard and Kilbane.

Boxers' pay per minute in other great bouts include: Nelson-Britt, 18 rounds, 1905—$581. Corbett-Fitzsimmons, 14 rounds, 1897—$393. Ketchell-Papke, 20 rounds, 1909—$288. Gans-Nelson, 42 rounds, 1906—$266.

Jeffries and Fitzsimmons received $678 a minute for their eleven round bout at Coney Island in 1895, and Jeff and Corbett divided $632 a minute for their twenty-three round set-to at Coney the following year.

Boxers' pay per minute in other great bouts include: Nelson-Britt, 18 rounds, 1905—$581. Corbett-Fitzsimmons, 14 rounds, 1897—$393. Ketchell-Papke, 20 rounds, 1909—$288. Gans-Nelson, 42 rounds, 1906—$266.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW SAFE

Yeggs Make Escape After Effort is Frustrated.

Kendallville, Ind., Aug. 2.—A futile attempt to "crack" the safe at the interurban station was frustrated by Percy Munaw, proprietor of the interurban grocery store, at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, when three persons were caught in the act of carrying on their work, and were frightened away. They secured nothing. Several hours later, it was discovered the Ford automobile of Henry Reyher, parked in an alleyway at the home of his son, Clyde Reyher, on William street, had been stolen. It is presumed the trio stole this machine in making their getaway. Officials were working on the case today, with little clue, and it is feared the yeggs have made a successful escape. A suspect was picked up this morning by officers but was later released.

POISONED FISH CAUSES YOUNG WOMAN'S DEATH

Mrs. Leininger, Who Died at Hicksville, Well Known at Butler.

Butler, Ind., Aug. 2.—Mrs. Mary

Leininger, of Hicksville, Ohio, who was buried Monday, was well known in this vicinity, having visited her aunt, Mrs. Albertson, and cousin, Mrs. Myrtle Oberlin, a number of times, making many friends here. Mrs. Leininger was formerly Miss Mary Pettie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Pettie, of Hicksville. She was 24 years old and was married in December of 1916. Two weeks ago she was attacked with ptomaine poisoning and seemed to be getting along nicely until Friday, when she was taken suddenly ill and died before morning.

She was poisoned by eating fish while camping at Hamilton lake. Mrs. George Swift returned home this week from a two weeks' visit at Decatur, Ill., where she visited her sons, Earl Sewell and family and Edward Swift. Her grandson, Russell Earl Sewell, accompanied her home for a visit. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown and daughter, Nora, will spend Thursday and Friday at Hamilton, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Masters. ENEMY HOLDS AN ADVANTAGE

Admiral Jellicoe Explains Success of Germany's Coast Raids.

PATROL BOATS ARE MUCH HANDICAPPED

Britain Cannot Deflect General Strategy to Prevent Raids.

London, Aug. 2.—"The British navy's control of the nerve system of maritime communications of the world at this juncture is more complete than the control exercised by the army of the central powers on land," said Admiral Sir John R. Jellicoe, first sea lord and chief of the naval staff in an interview with the Associated Press yesterday in which he discussed the submarine menace and the naval situation at the end of the third year of the war.

"That," he said, "suggests perhaps a train of thought which all students of the war might pursue with interest and advantage to the allied cause. But I am content at this moment merely to emphasize the supreme importance of the work which the grand fleet is doing under the command of Sir David Beatty."

Why Raids Are Possible.

"You ask me why it is that German destroyers are able to carry out raids from time to time. Such missions are entrusted to the swiftest vessels under the German ensign and they are carried out with every advantage on the side of the Germans. The North sea is a very big area of water. It is more than twice as large as the whole United Kingdom—England, Scotland and Wales and Ireland—which is traversed by nearly 24,000 miles of railway lines. "The German destroyers wait for dark and then dash off from one of the bases situated within an hour or two of the British coast. They have the choice of the objective against a coast line of great length. There is hardly a point but is undefended, advantage having been taken of the immunity from bombardment which international law was believed, before the war to confer.

Enemy Has Advantages.

"Now mark these points: The enemy has the choice of night, when the weather and visibility are most suitable for its purpose. He puts to sea clear northerly, westerly or southerly direction. Aircraft are used for reconnaissance so as to gain information of the movement of the British patrol forces. The Germans have the further advantage of being able to fire at every craft, which comes within sight, the moment it is sighted.

"What is the position of the British patrol whose vigilance has been subjected to three years of unceasing strain? Officers have many duties to carry out apart from punishing these 'tip and run' raiders. They never know when the enemy ships will break out or where they will go at their highest speed and in the darkness they have to discriminate between friend and neutral on the one hand and foe on the other hand before they fire.

No Military Gain.

"Despite the advantage which the Germans enjoy no raid has resulted in the slightest military gain to Germany or loss to England. Such a policy cannot be pushed successfully unless the enemy is prepared to support his destroyers with stronger forces—in other words, risk some portion of his high sea fleet—and thus the menace of our grand fleet operates.

"We deplore the loss of life among non-combatants but after all we are engaged in a war wherein the freedom of the world depends and we cannot deflect our strategy from its main purpose. That is what the Germans hope to effect and they have failed. At the same time perhaps I may add that since the exploits of the 'Swift' and 'Broke' the intervals have been so long that the British coast has been tempted no raid on the British coast.

The Submarine Bases.

"This leads me to say a few words as to the destroyer and submarine bases on the Belgian coast which are in the occupation of the Germans. One is Ostend, the other is Zeebrugge. The Germans have applied to this length of sand-fringed coast the same principle of intensive fortification as higher up on the North sea and the island of Heligoland. The coast is studded with high guns which in themselves constitute infinitesimal targets at a range of more than 20,000 yards on which any bombardment could be carried out.

"Moreover the enemy has not been slow to make fullest use of aircraft and smoke screens by way of protection. Ostend offers the best target but it can only be attacked a few intervals when a favorable combination of wind, weather and sea conditions can be attained. Zeebrugge, in the real sense of the word, is not a naval base but merely an exit from the inland port of Bruges, with which it is connected by a wide, deep-water canal. There is little to hit at Zeebrugge. Still, I hope that the problem which the Belgian coast presents is not unsolvable."

DIVER ALSO IS DROWNED

of the lake slopes downward, they say, at an angle of not less than seventy-five degrees and that it is likely that the body rolled off into very deep water. It is said that a short distance out towards the center of the lake from the point where Huber drowned the water is several hundred feet deep.

BETZ ON VACATION.

Arthur S. Betz, clerk of the postmaster's office, will begin a two weeks' vacation Friday morning. He will go to Lake James to join his family, where he expects to find good fishing.

Wanted—Coal shovellers, by the hour or tonnage, Pioneer Coal Company.

PERSHING AT ENCAMPMENTS

The General's Statement. At the end of the first day's inspection, General Pershing said: "Our principal concern just now, of course, is to perfect the army organization. This is a big task, but it is moving along smoothly and in a most satisfactory manner."

"The work at certain ports of disembarkation is well started. Railroad material is coming over as rapidly as can be arranged. The progress we have made thus far with the assistance of the French is a source of great satisfaction to me. Billets and training ground for men are as well located as could be expected at this time of the year when space is limited by crops in the fields."

Promises Portable Barracks. "After these are removed we will have plenty of space for lodging and training the divisions that are to come. Some of the places where men are now sleeping are not all that could be desired, but this soon will be remedied by the construction of portable barracks. Training is progressing very well with the assistance of the French."

General Pershing was untrusting in his inspection of the training area. He inquired into every phase of the men's daily life, the character and the quantity of their food, even to the disposition of garbage, which he found was going to French farmers who were delighted to obtain it. They take advantage of every sort of refuse containing fat. General Pershing found the American soldiers and the French villagers living together in the greatest amity. He inquired about the washing for soldiers and found that they nearly all washed their own clothes in the village wash-houses erected along running streams, the village wash-houses on one bank and the soldiers on the other.

Quizzes the Cooks.

At several company kitchens the American commander interrogated the cooks closely.

"Do you get enough to eat and to feed the men?" he asked one veteran cook who has been in the regular army for a number of years. "Yes, sir," replied the cook, standing at respectful attention.

"Do you get any vegetables?" asked General Pershing. "No, sir."

"Don't you get any potatoes?" asked General Pershing, with some surprise. "Oh, yes sir," was the prompt reply.

"And onions and tomatoes?" questioned the general further.

"Yes sir."

"And beans?"

"Yes sir."

Then what do you want?"

"Nothing, sir."

Gen. Pershing smiled and moved away, satisfied that particular company was doing very well in war time and in the war zone.

At another company kitchen the cook said the only complaint he had to make was that the company's share of canned salmon had not been forthcoming regularly.

"What do you get as a substitute?" asked the general.

"Well, of course, sir, we get bacon," replied the cook somewhat subdued.

"Any other complaint?" the commander inquired.

There was none and again the general passed on, completely satisfied with prevailing conditions.

First Glimpse for Many.

Many soldiers saw General Pershing for the first time in their lives as he visited the camp on the far flung training area that the soldiers speculated at first whether he was Pershing. Several times they referred the dispute to the correspondents accompanying the officer. "I knew it was Pershing all the time," boasted one old trooper, "because I saw his picture in the paper and he looks just like it."

General Pershing gave orders looking to a little smarter set up of the men in the future. A great majority of the troops now in France are recruits in the regular army and many of them are learning the art of soldiering for the first time.

They are doing remarkably well, but have plunged into actual war training all at once they naturally have neglected some smaller details that would seem unimportant to the uninitiated, but that go a long way toward establishing and maintaining the morale of an army. General Pershing late in the day found time to visit the war correspondent headquarters and was entertained there. He will visit one or two American hospital units in the American zone tomorrow.

crushed and its originators were brought to justice. All necessary steps have been taken at the front for restoring the combative strength of the armies.

"The government intends bringing to a successful end the task of establishing an administration capable of meeting all dangers and guiding the country in the path of revolutionary regeneration. Russia will not suffer herself to be deterred by any difficulty in carrying out the irrevocable decision to continue the war to a final triumph of the principles proclaimed by the Russian revolution."

"In the presence of an enemy menace the country and the army will continue with renewed courage the great work of restoration as well as the preparation on the threshold of the fourth year of the war for the coming campaign. We firmly believe that Russian citizens will combine all efforts to fulfill the sacred task of defending the beloved country and that the enthusiasm which lighted in their breast a flame of faith in the triumph of liberty will direct the whole invincible force of Russia against the enemy who threatens the country."

reaction resulted in some of the far advanced forces of the allies being pushed back.

Today, however, comes the announcement from London that despite the hampering rainfall the British have negated the results of one of the German counter thrusts, completely re-establishing their line in the neighborhood of the Roulers-Ypres railway at the foot of the ridge at back. While there may be some inclination on the part of lay critics to regard with some misgivings stress laid upon the bad weather by the officials that indicate a hold up of the allied advance, military observers at the front apparently are in entire agreement with the seriousness of this handicap. The allies had established air superiority and the storm has prevented observation altogether, entailing inactivity upon the big guns that are relied upon to blast a path for the advancing infantry. To the low visibility also has been attributed such success as the Germans were able to gain in their counter attacks, the poor sighting conditions preventing the entire guns from massing their fire effectively to break up the enemy concentrations. Despite the hard fighting in Flanders, the Germans are continuing their pronounced activities on the French front.

Paris reports two attacks on the French line east and southeast of Rheims and assaults in the Avocourt wood sector in the Verdun region and in the Apremont forest southeast of St. Mihiel. All these were fruitless for the Germans.

Some important movement apparently is under way on the Russian northern front which has been cold-entirely firm while the southern end of the line was falling back. Now, however, the Russians are reported to have evacuated the Uskull bridge head, 15 miles southeast of Riga, the Germans marching into the evacuated positions. The exact significance of this development is yet to be revealed.

amendment providing that the constitutional amendment shall be inoperative unless ratified by three-fourths of the states within six years from the date of its submission.

All Amendments Fail.

The senate's action came after three days' debate and the amendment to the constitution failed except for the addition of Senator Harding's amendment fixing the six years' time limit within which three-fourths of the states must ratify the amendment to make it effective. This was approved, 55 to 23.

As adopted, the resolution, which was submitted by Senator Sheppard, of Texas, democrat, would add the following article to the federal constitution:

"The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

"This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by the legislatures of the several states, as provided in the constitution, within six years from the date of the submission thereof to the states by the congress.

"The congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

ULTIMATUM TO KERENSKY.

London, Aug. 2.—According to a Petrograd dispatch to the Post Russian army commanders had a conference at headquarters recently and virtually sent an ultimatum to Premier and War Minister Kerensky that unless the army was kept outside politics and treated merely as a fighting machine, they would resign as being unable to carry on the war victoriously. The correspondent believes the ultimatum will be accepted.

Press.—"The situation is virtually unchanged." This sums up the day's news from the wide zone along which the British and French yesterday hurled Prince Rupprecht's forces back to the supporting defenses to depth varying between one and three miles. Artillery activities continued with great intensity, the British pouring a steady stream of high explosive shells into positions which the Germans now hold, but there was comparatively little infantry fighting. The allies today were busy consolidating the positions they captured yesterday. Heavy German counter attacks had been looked for, but outside of a few local attempts to regain the positions they did not materialize. This was perhaps due partly to the heavy rain which continued without cessation since last night, filling shell holes with water and turning the terrain into a deep mud, over which it is difficult to fight. The German guns, however, many of which had been withdrawn to positions further back before the rain began, have been carrying off a steady bombardment, especially against the territory captured by the allies on the northern side of the Ypres salient, but their firing has been more or less erratic, because of the storm, which blocked the work of the observation officers. As usual the Germans are employing great quantities of gas shells.

Due to the complete preparations made for yesterday's assault the British casualties have not been excessive but the condition of the battlefield and statements by prisoners indicate that the German losses were exceedingly heavy. The British medical corps has again evinced a most complete organization. At 8 o'clock last night all British wounded had been collected and brought back to emergency stations. More than 4,000 prisoners have been carrying off a steady taken by the British in the Ypres salient alone. Prussians, Bavarians and Saxons all have been giving their number to swell the total captured and no more dejected appearing men have been seen in British prison stations since the beginning of the war. Particularly noticeable was the scarcity of veteran non-commissioned officers and the large number of young men from the 1918 class who are nothing more than raw recruits. One veteran of many battles freely expressed his contempt of these youngsters who, he said, lacked stamina to stand up to the hardships of war, and could not be depended upon in a tight place.

A majority of these prisoners were a miserable, sorry looking lot, many of them suffering from internal complaints caused by exposure and the majority from hunger. Few of them have any hopes of Germany winning the war, and one officer ventured the opinion that the time of the fatherland's downfall was near at hand. He based his opinion on the scarcity of men, and certainly boyish faces now in prison camps appear to be indicative of a lack of human material.

THE FRENCH REPORT.

Paris, Aug. 2.—Bad weather continues in Belgium, says the official statement by the French war department this afternoon. The Germans last night made two attacks to the east and southeast of Rheims, but both failed. On the left bank of the river Meuse there was a violent artillery duel. The Germans last night attacked in the sector of Avocourt wood without success and several attacks in Apremont forest, southeast of St. Mihiel, utterly failed.

LONDON OFFICIAL REPORT.

London, Aug. 2.—The official war statement on the battle in Flanders issued yesterday, says:

"In spite of the weather, which made flying almost impossible, our airplanes kept in contact with our advancing infantry throughout the day. The enemy's aeroplanes, transport and infantry were successfully attacked with bombs and machine gun fire. The few enemy machines that attempted to fly were attacked and six of them were brought down. Three of our machines are missing.

"The number of German prisoners captured in July was 4,039, of whom 1,815 were officers. These figures include such of the prisoners as were captured in yesterday's operations, who reached the collecting stations by 6 p. m. The captured material includes eight field guns, fifty-three machine guns and thirty-two trench mortars."

ANOTHER MOVE HITS ROCKS.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The resolution by Senator Weeks for a congressional committee to survive war expenditures similar to those of the food control eliminated because of President Wilson's objections was adversely reported to the senate today by the rules committee. Administration leaders are confident that the majority vote required to secure consideration of the resolution cannot be secured.

WILL SOON TAKE OVER ALL OCEAN GOING VESSELS

Washington, Aug. 2.—Plans for taking over for operation all American ocean going merchant ships soon will be announced by the shipping board. Charter will be requisitioned under a recent act of congress authorizing the president to commandeer tonnage for government uses. The program is preliminary to putting into operation an agreement between the American and British governments for joint control of the world's shipping. It will give the shipping board control of ocean freight rates charged by American ships and a rate basis being worked out for an international rate schedule.

BAKER ASSERTS THERE HAS NOT BEEN DISASTER

Washington, Aug. 2.—Untraceable rumors that some disaster had been met by the American forces brought from Secretary Baker today a denial and reiteration of the promise that news of any misfortune would not be withheld from the public.

"I have no hesitation in saying," said Secretary Baker, in a statement, "that not a syllable has reached the war department which would lead us to believe that any misfortune has attended our forces on land or sea and I can reiterate the pledge made some time ago that any such word will be instantly given to the country, subject only to the qualification that any military movements in process at the time be completed so as not to imperil the remainder of the forces involved."

"Let me repeat that no word has reached us which would justify any fear at this time."

MANY SLACKERS REGISTERED ON FALSE ADDRESS

Washington, Aug. 2.—Hundreds of men in chief cities of the country, reports to the department of justice show, gave fictitious addresses for draft registration, and are now being sought by government agents. Bridges, vacant lots, streets that do not exist, and in some cases factory sites, were given as addresses by registrants who have since disappeared. In a large number of cases prospects are not considered bright for finding the slackers.

The practice appears to have been more prevalent in the larger cities. A few cases of the sort are reported from communities having less than 100,000 population.

CORN PRICES TAKE NEW TURN UPWARD

Report of Inadequate Rain Southwest Gives Boost to the Market.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Corn prices took an upward turn today, influenced by reports indicating that relief which had been afforded by rains in the southwest and elsewhere was not so great as at first seemed to have been the case. Opening prices, which ranged from 1/4¢ off to 1/4¢ advance, with December at $1.15 1/2 to $1.16 1/2, and May at $1.12 1/2 to $1.14 1/2, were followed by a moderate general advance and then something of a reaction.

Unfavorable crop advices from the Dakotas gave some firmness to wheat prices. After opening 2¢ higher at $2.20 September, the market advanced to 22¢ and then fell back to 21 1/2¢.

Increased rural offerings to arrive, especially from central Illinois, tended to make oats market relatively easy.

Provisions hardened after a little initial weakness.

ANOTHER DROP IN THE POTATO MARKET

Now Retailing at 35 Cents Per Peck—Corn Remains Steady.

Another decline of five cents per peck was noted in the price of potatoes Thursday morning, retail dealers quoting a price of 35 cents per peck. The supply of the new potatoes is encouraging and a further reduction is looked for. Eggs also dropped slightly, now retailing for 35 cents per dozen. Corn remained practically stationary, although the price on the city scales was one cent a bushel lower than on the preceding day. Five loads were sold at $2 to $2.05 per bushel. Only ten loads of new hay were weighed Thursday, compared to thirty-two on the preceding day. The price obtained was $9 to $12 per ton. Four loads of the old hay sold at $16 to $17. Nine loads of oats were sold at 75 and 76 cents per bushel.

The drone bees do no work. They are the royal consorts. They fertilize the eggs after which they soon die or are killed. The queen bee lives in the hive and never departs from it except at swarming time. If she be removed the whole swarm will follow her. If more than one queen bee is found in the nest they fight among themselves until only one survives. The survivor becomes the queen of the colony. The only exception to this is when a colony becomes too large for the old queen to rule when another queen is grown and a new queen is prepared. On the new queen's appearance the old queen leaves the hive followed by a part of her workers.

COUNCIL PASSES BUCK ON OIL TANK REFORM

Will Put Responsibility on the State Fire Marshal.

The matter of tampering with a squad of gasoline tanks, when each one of the containers represents enough explosive liquid to blow up the east end, is a mighty ticklish proposition. The council realizes that fact. They passed a law allowing the tanks to enter the city and would now favor a resolution which would drive the tanks out again.

But how to do that gracefully with the mayor and others looking on caused the city fathers to pass the buck Wednesday evening. There was some parleying on whether to allow the mayor to state "I told you so" and a dozen other speakers to remark "Now that the council has changed its mind on the tank question."

It was decided by a vote of 3 to 6, at a special session, Wednesday night, that the council would not bear the brunt of any informal sarcasm. The matter of repealing the present tank law and enacting something more within the wishes of the mayor and several other folks was passed down to the committee on rules, regulations and ordinances. These men in turn admit that they will place the burden of deciding about the tanks upon the shoulders of the state fire marshal, who will come to Fort Wayne soon to have a look about the city.

A rapid-fire debate ensued when Councilman Herman J. Korte suggested that the tank subject be discussed by the council, as a committee of the whole at once. "I will never attend another committee of the whole meeting," explained Councilman Gene Smith. "I have been in on the last of such affairs."

So the mayor, who had been invited to the meeting, did not get to talk and neither did the several visitors who are pro-tank and anti-tank men. The committee on rules, regulations and ordinances will have a public meeting on next Tuesday evening when tank testimonials will be cheerfully received. After that the council will repeal the present gasoline law and will decide to put the steel reservoirs under ground or banish them from the city altogether.

Residents Raise Kick.

Councilman A. H. Keller, of the Eighth ward, presented a remonstrance against the allowing of the Sinclair Oil company to place a large filling station on Hayden street, near Hayden park. The document which derided the entrance of a big gasoline holder as a menace to life and property, an unwarranted defiance of the city building code and an increase of insurance rates, was signed by ninety-seven property owners in the Hayden park region. The matter went to the rules and regulations committee.

Colonel D. N. Foster, representing the park board, had an address in which he asked the council to furnish an automobile for the new park superintendent, Adolph Jaenake. The council will act on the request at the next regular session.

"I believe we have drawn a prize in the lottery of picking a park superintendent when we secured Mr. Jaenake," Colonel Foster explained. "We should give him all the support possible."

RECEPTION FOR PASTOR IS DECIDED SUCCESS

Large Number of Friends of Rev. Bosch and Family Say Farewell.

A fitting, appropriate and deserving farewell reception was tendered Rev. John H. Bosch and his family Wednesday evening by the members of St. John's Reformed church. The attendance was so large that the prepared amount of refreshments was inadequate and another order had to be called for.

The affair was a decided success and everybody had a good time. As was pointed out by one of the speakers on the program the all roses have thorns, it was evident that the thorns were lacking at the happy gathering held in the church hall. Although the words of farewell brought tears to the eyes of many all wished the departing pastor and his family the best of success.

Miss Pauline Roth recited several poems, appropriate for the occasion and made an excellent address in which she pointed out the success which Rev. Bosch had had since becoming pastor of the church twenty-two years ago.

A gift of remembrance as an expression of their appreciation for his untiring efforts as pastor of the church was presented to Rev. Bosch by his friends. The address of presentation was given by E. F. Fruechte. Rev. Bosch and his wife responded. Musical numbers interspersing the other numbers were also greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served during the course of the evening.

It was planned to have a reception later in the month but due to unexpected developments which came upon the pastor and his family to move from the city the latter part of this week. Future plans have not been definitely decided upon.

Bring or send your ticket to Shady Brook park at 5 p. m. Saturday, August 4. For full information call phone 357 or 74 or call at office, 1022 Calhoun street.

TREASURE TRUNKS OPENED IN COURT

Wealth in Silks and Satins Startles Staid Spectators.

If Captain Kidd had a weakness for silks he would have envied the treasure chests which were opened in city court, Wednesday afternoon, as a part of the trial of R. C. Maurer and H. D. Korte, charged with stealing property from the Adams Express company. From the rolls and rolls of fluffy silk garments and shiny satin clothes it would seem that the two express messengers had looted the harem of some splendid oriental kingdom.

After Special Agent Harrigan had displayed the gorgeous loot, which he estimates as being worth $500, and after Chief Special Agent Biedeman and Pennsylvania Police Captain Stoll had told of Maurer's confession the two defendants were bound over to circuit court under $1,000 bonds each.

Robert Boehn, Harold Swank, William L. Wagner, and F. S. Schmitz, charged with petty larceny, were each fined $25 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in jail by Judge H. W. Kerr on Thursday morning. The men had all pleaded guilty to taking articles from fish lines to cameras from the express packages.

"There is no doubt in my mind but what you men were in an organized band," said Judge Kerr Thursday morning. "I take into consideration that you were not well paid for your work. But you did not have to steal. You could get another job."

"If I make this sentence light what will you men promise?" interrogated the judge. "We will never steal again," came in chorus from the men who stood in a line before Judge Kerr's desk. Fines were paid for each offender and their sentences have started.

Exhibit a $10,000 Chassis

OLDSMOBILE DEMONSTRATOR IS AT STULTS SHOW ROOM.

Chassis Shows Workings of New High Speed Engine; Was at All the Shows.

An Oldsmobile automobile chassis, which cost $10,000 to manufacture, and which has been on display at all of the big automobile shows this year, will be exhibited at the Stults Automobile company's rooms on West Main street today and Friday. The car is being taken to various Oldsmobile agencies throughout the country by E. J. McMullen, of the technical department of the Olds Motor works at Lansing, Mich., and the working and advantages of the construction are explained by him during the exhibit.

The chassis is a 1917 model, and has been prepared to show the details of the eight-cylinder, high speed, high efficiency V-type motor, which is the main feature of the car. The steel parts are beautifully enameled, and all exposed parts are nickel or silver plated. By means of sections and glass plates every moving part may be seen, and electric lights are placed in the interior to provide illumination. The engine is turned by an electric motor. Ten weeks were required at the factory to complete the chassis. Much of this time was accounted for in giving the car its beautiful finish, as the metal was filed and smoothed with emery cloth before enameling.

Few Changes Made in Program for Sunday's Patriotic Demonstration.

A few changes have been made in the program for the patriotic demonstration to be held at Robison park Sunday. Instead of 10:30 o'clock, as previously announced, the special cars to the park for the G. A. R. veterans, their wives and members of patriotic auxiliaries, will not leave until 12:30 o'clock.

The flag raising will take place at 2:30 o'clock, followed by the parade to the speakers' stand. Manager C. H. Williams, of the park, who is in charge of the demonstration, has arranged several surprises that are not on the program.

No one but veterans, their wives and members of auxiliaries will be allowed on the special cars and to make this certain tickets will be provided. They will be given out at the north door of the court house from 12 to 12:30 o'clock until the special cars are loaded and start. The tickets will be for display purposes only and will admit those having them to pass through the turn table at the ticket office and board the special cars in waiting for the return trip to Fort Wayne.

NAVAL MEN NO POISON SQUAD SAYS OFFICER

Washington, Aug. 2.—"Navy men are no poison squad," says Paymaster McGowan, chief of the navy's bureau of supplies and accounts, in an edict, insisting on rigid inspection of food purchases.

"It is therefore directed," he said, "that every effort to try on the navy an experiment or test of any food products whatever, shall be promptly suppressed. It should be constantly borne in mind that doubtful food is bad food and will be treated as such."

Germany Claims Recovery of Line in Flanders

BERLIN WAR OFFICE ANNOUNCES GAIN IN THE MIGHTY BATTLE

The British Report Asserts That the Ground Regained in German Counter Attack Is Again Taken.

RAIN HAS INTERFERED WITH MOVEMENTS

Berlin, Aug. 2.—The German battle line in Flanders has been moved forward as a result of successful counter attacks, army headquarters announced today.

The hostile attacking forces effected no gains and suffered heavy losses in the face of the unweakened German defensive, it is declared.

THE BRITISH CLAIM.

London, Aug. 2.—British forces today launched a counter attack against the German positions in Flanders. General Sir Douglas Haig reports that the British troops completely re-established their line in the neighborhood of the Roulers-Ypres railway, some territory in which area the Germans yesterday had regained.

KAISER SENDS GREETINGS.

Berlin, Aug. 2.—Emperor William, according to an official statement today telegraphed to Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria his congratulations on the great success of the German fourth army, July 31, "whereby the vehement Anglo-French attack intended to conquer the coast of Flanders failed."

SITUATION UNCHANGED.

British Front in France and Belgium, Aug. 1.—(By the Associated Press.)

Summary of the Day's War News

Germany is battling with a desperation probably unparalleled in the war to hold her lines in Flanders against the combined Anglo-French attack. Notwithstanding the heavy handicap which the atrocious weather has imposed on them however, the entente forces have made good their most important gains and apparently are only awaiting clearing conditions to blast their way further into the Teutonic front.

The boasts of successful resistance to the entente thrust that have come from the Berlin war office were based as usual on the unwarranted assumption that an attempt had been made to break through and upon the fact that at one or two points the German

Indianapolis, Aug. 2.—The official list of registrants in Marion county outside of Indianapolis, containing 2,691 names, disappeared last night from the office of Hugh McK. London, chairman of the exemption board for that division. The reported theft of the numbers and names today to the federal authorities here and Jesse Eschbach, state conscription officer. The list was being used to prepare other lists, and out of it was being prepared the list for posting to call the first men for examination.

The authorities had very little to say about the matter but it is said they do not believe the list was taken by any desiring to escape being called for exam-

Lynchers.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 2.—The citizens of Butte spent a restless night owing to rumors of wholesale lynchings and threatened outbreaks by the comrades of Frank Little, Industrial Worker of the World leader, who was dragged from his hotel by a party of seven and hanged to a railroad bridge early yesterday.

The city council, at the request of Mayor W. H. Maloney, voted to offer a reward of $1,000 for the arrest and conviction of any one of the slayers of the I. W. W. leader.

District Attorney B. K. Wheeler declared that he had referred reports of some of Little's speeches here, alleged to be seditious in character, to the attorney general for an opinion. He was awaiting a decision before ordering Little's arrest, he explained, as he was not positive that Little had violated any federal statute.

The Metal Mine Workers' union requested Sheriff John K. O'Rourke to appoint 1,000 members of the union special deputies to aid in preserving peace. This the sheriff declined to do, stating that he felt it would be unwise to arm so many.

Washington, Aug. 2.—National prohibition by constitutional amendment was hung up in the house today by the prohibition leaders themselves. The resolution to submit the proposal to the states, passed yesterday by the senate, was put out of the program for the present session and will not come up until the regular session in December.

Plans to reconvene the democratic caucus and reverse its decision to consider only war legislation were abandoned because it was believed delaying action until the next session will help the prohibition cause.

The resolution passed the senate late yesterday by a vote of 65 to 20, eight more than the necessary two-thirds, and today house dry leaders were preparing to press for its prompt consideration there. They claim it will pass. The only change made in the resolution was the adoption of an

Bent upon the task of recovering the body of Edward Huber, of this city, who was drowned in Lake James last Sunday, a diver from the Great Lakes Towing station, at Toledo, also found a watery grave.

Just an hour before he was to have started for Angola to take up the big task he fell off a tug boat at Toledo and was drowned. His body was recovered at 2 o'clock Thursday morning. Manager Fletcher, of the towing station, imparted this information in a telegram to George Huber, the father of the boy who is drowned.

In the same message Mr. Huber was informed that another diver would arrive at Lake James some time Thursday morning to take up the job of finding the corpse.

Several men who have been at the lake since the drowning, assisting in the work of searching for the body, state that it will be a hard matter even for the diver to find the body.

The young man drowned just on the edge of the "step-off." The bottom

CONSCRIPTION APPEAL BOARDS MEET SATURDAY

Governor Asked to Appoint
Man to Represent the Government.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 2.—A meeting of the four district conscription appeal boards in Indiana, to be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, was called today by Jesse Eschbach, state conscription officer. The purpose of the meeting is to clear up all misunderstandings or doubts as to the duties of the boards.

Governor Goodrich has been asked by the government to appoint a man in each district to represent the government in appeals and other matters before the boards. Part of their duties will be to act as challengers in exemption cases appealed to the district boards.

Examination of men called for the army began here today in two of the ten divisions of the city. Of the first twelve examined in two divisions two were found to be in military service already, two failed to pass the physical examination and each of the others filed a claim for exemption. J. Roy Connell, the first man examined in the sixth district, came all the way from Wrightsville, Ga., to answer the call. He had gone to Georgia to live after he registered. He is married and has one child and after having passed the physical examination filed a claim for exemption.

All division boards in Indianapolis will be at work Monday.

ABLE TO CARE FOR
5 PER CENT BY FALL

There Will Be Reconstruction Hospitals for the Crippled.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Adequate provision for reconstruction hospitals where crippled soldiers may be fitted with artificial limbs and be re-educated in new trades is included in the army medical department's hospital program as outlined in a statement today.

This will not be undertaken, however, until after completion of the thirty-two hospitals at national army and national guard camps, enlargement of more than thirty hospitals at officers' training camps, establishment of at least two general hospitals at ports and of a number of special treatment institutions.

"The aim of the medical department," says the statement, "is to have hospital provision for 5 per cent of the enlisted force by fall and then to proceed to extend that to 10 per cent.

Abroad facilities for 20 per cent of the American expeditionary force will be provided.

"It is a fact that many men are entered in the records as 'sick' when they would not be so considered in civil life. The sick lists in the modern military camps of this country show under 1 per cent of cases which would be regarded as even moderately serious in civil life."

All members of the battery, including those men who have signed up and have not been examined are ordered by the commissioned officers to report at the court house at 8 o'clock Thursday evening for verbal instructions.

It is likely that if arrangements can be made the battery will mobilize Friday morning.

All members of the battery must report to the first sergeant at the court house not later than 9 o'clock Sunday morning. Each man must bring complete baggage with him as he will not have sufficient time to return home to get them.

GERMAN NEWSPAPER CALLS IT FOLLY TO DISCOUNT AMERICA

Zurich, Aug. 2.—The military critics of the Munchener Neueste Nachrichten, regrets that British diplomacy has been more clever and successful than the German. He says it has been constantly making new allies until now there are 1,350,000,000 foes against Germany's 150,000,000, and declares that Great Britain's greatest gain in this respect is America.

"Nothing is more foolish than arrogantly to under-estimate America's entry into the war," he says. "Economically, politically and financially an Anglo-Saxon circle has now been formed and threatens to rule the world unless we oppose a central European and Asiatic combination against it. The military importance of America is equally great. She requires only time to become effective."

EXPRESSES FAITH IN RUSSIAN ARMS

Petrograd, Aug. 2.—Foreign Minister Terestchenko has sent the following telegram to Russian diplomatists accredited to the allied powers:

"At a moment when new and grave misfortunes are threatening Russia, we consider it our duty to give to our allies who have shared with us the burden of trials in the past, a firm and definite explanation of our point of view regarding the conduct of the war.

"Reorganization in the face of the enemy of the entire governmental system could not be effected without disorders. Nevertheless, Russia, convinced there is no other means of safety, has continued in accord with the allies' common action on the front.

"Fully conscious of the difficulties of the task, Russia has taken up the burden of conducting active military operation during reconstruction of the army and the government. The offensive of our armies which was necessitated by a strategic situation encountered insurmountable obstacles on both fronts and in the interior of the country. The criminal propaganda of irresponsible elements was used by enemy agents and provoked a revolution in Petrograd. At the same time part of the troops on the front were seduced by the same propaganda, forgot their duty to the country and facilitated the enemy, piercing our front.

"The Russian people have been stirred by these events. Through the government created by the revolution and an unshakable will, the revolt was

American Training Camp in France, Wednesday, August 1.—General Pershing gave the American expeditionary force an example of the strenuous life by sweeping through nearly a dozen villages, where United States soldiers are living in France and visiting nearly all training centers which have been established from America's first contribution for the war for democracy.

It was not a cursory inspection. He went into minute details all along the line, questioned private soldiers, company cooks and various other ranks as to how things were going and what if anything could be done to improve the situation.

Found the Daily Routine Going. General Pershing was expected Monday, but delayed leaving Paris until late yesterday. He spent the night at a quiet little French village and reached the American army area early today. His visit was entirely informal and he found the forces just as he desired—engaged in their daily routine work and drill.

The general is also inspecting various places suggested for his field headquarters for he expects before long to remove from Paris nearer the troops in training. He will return to Paris late tomorrow.

CHIEF COOK AT ARMY CAMP HAD TALKED STRIKE

Hattiesburg, Miss., Aug. 2.—Nicholas Feigl, chief cook for a construction crew at the army training camp here, was under arrest today charged with being "dangerous and suspicious." The arrest was made by county authorities at the request of officers of the construction company who claimed Feigl attempted to incite a strike among commissary employees. He will be turned over to the federal authorities.

Feigl stated that although he was a native of Germany he was a naturalized American citizen. He came here from St. Louis.

Barracks are being built here for the Indiana and Kentucky national guard troops.

WOMEN WORKERS ARE RUSHING TO SHOPS

Applications for Jobs at Pennsy Begin Soon After Announcement.

The proposition to employ a number of women at the Pennsylvania shops promises to be successful. At noon today there had been twenty-four personal applications at the office of Master Mechanic E. E. Griest and double that number of telephonic inquiries. Applicants began inquiries at 5:30 last night, an hour or two after the Sentinel containing the story about the intention of the company to employ women was delivered to the subscribers, and it continued until a late hour last night. All of the applicants for positions had the appearance of good, honest people, who earnestly sought to find more remunerative employment than is open to them in other lines of work. None were put at work this morning, but arrangements were completed whereby they will start active duties tomorrow or at least early next week. The applicants kept the clerical forces in the master mechanic's office and at the office of General Foreman H. U. Diem, at the east end shops, busy taking their names and learning which line of work they desired or were particularly adapted for. The number of applicants who appeared at the offices this afternoon was not available for publication, but it is said to be all and more than was expected.

Mr. Wort will leave shortly for Philadelphia to take up his new position as chief quartermaster of the industrial German vessel, Koenig Wilhelm II, which was taken over at the order of President Wilson along with other German liners to augment American shipping.

The Koenig Wilhelm II, according to Wort, is the second largest of the German ships taken over by the U. S. A. It has a displacement of 19,500 tons and is 705 feet in length. The local recruiting officer will leave for the east immediately upon the arrival of his successor.

Fellow Workmen Struck Him in the Eye With Piece of Cinder.

Auburn, Ind., Aug. 2.—Mart Casselman, who is employed at the gas plant, will be unable to work for several days, owing to an injury to his eye, which he sustained Tuesday, when a cinder thrown by a fellow workman, struck him in the eye, badly injuring the member. His companion was endeavoring to attract his attention and tossed the cinder at his back, but Casselman turned just before it hit him and got it square in the eye. It was feared at first that the sight was injured, but the attending physician thinks now that it will be all right in a week or two.

Plan For Raising Funds.

In the matter of securing funds for the county council of patriotic service the state council comments as follows:

"The solicitation of funds for war aid and war charity is becoming of such proportions that regulation may be advisable.

We suggest that, if regulation seem to any of you advisable, it take the form of an approval card. The card should be issued to the solicitor by the county council of defense after investigation and should express the council's approval of the particular solicitation.

"If this method were followed and due publicity given, the result, we believe, would be the abatement of much ill-advised solicitation."

Columbia City Short Notes.
The First National bank has brought suit against former Capt. Luther H.
Mertz and others to compel settlement of $250 left at the bank as the proceeds of the sale of the property of defunct Company G. The complaint sets out that Mertz, now first lieutenant in Battery D at Indianapolis, had asked that the money be paid to him, while S. N.
Markley, former captain of the company, has asked that a part be paid him, to repay money advanced by him to meet company debts. There are four or five other creditors mentioned in the complaint, and the sum of the debts against the company far exceed the $250 residue.

ing salesman for A. H. Perfect & Co., had a narrow escape Tuesday on the the auto and Mr. Watt saw an express train bearing down upon them just as their machine had stalled on the railroad crossing. The men jumped from their car and managed to push it away from the tracks just as the flyer whizzed by at the rate of sixty miles per hour.

Elmer E. Stites, of Thornecreek township, harvested thirteen acres of Red Wave wheat Monday that averaged nearly forty bushels to the acre.
His wheat will be used as seed wheat.

and had a yield of about thirty-six bushels per acre.

One of the work horses of the Pea-

Red Brush district of Richland township Tuesday, was overcome by heat and died a few minutes after being unhitched. It was valued at $200, with no insurance.

While driving the family auto between Coesse and the Lutheran church north of that place Tuesday, Mrs. F. L.
VanTubury lost control of the auto as it passed a rig and the machine, with her husband and a granddaughter, rolled down an embankment and into an oak field. The auto was badly damaged, but its occupants were unhurt.

THE BUTTE LYNCHING.

Peculiar atrocity invests the lynching of the I. W. W. lawyer, Little, at Butte, Mont., by a small mob of masked men styling themselves "the vigilantes." There was nothing in his conduct with which the law was not able to deal in salutary fashion. He had committed no crime of the sort usually held to account for heating the public mind to a state where summary vengeance alone seems to appease the popular wrath. He had done no murder, had outraged no woman, had not even stolen a horse. Indeed, there appears to have been no excited state of public feeling at all. The work of the mob was done quietly, with full deliberation and evidently in pursuit of carefully laid plans. It was a cool and calculated murder.

Little, like most of his ilk, had become an exceedingly undesirable citizen. It is said against him that in a public speech a short time before his death he had defamed soldiers of the United States as "Uncle Sam's scabs in uniform." That was a dangerous thing to have said in Butte or elsewhere in America at this time and if it had provoked an assault at the time of its utterance would have caused no surprise. But it was a treasonable remark that the federal government could and no doubt, in due time, would have dealt with adequately. The fact is that the west is getting tired of the agitations and conspiracies of the Industrial Workers of the World and in Butte some of the citizens determined to make an example of the most flagrant of the red-mouthed crew and they picked on Little as best answering their purpose to begin with.

The I. W. W. leaders there are now loud in their talk of vengeance and it may not be idle boasting done in the heat of rage. The I. W. W. radicals have no want of desperate spirit for desperate things. But if it comes to anything like a localized civil war the outcome of it can very easily be foreseen. The men of the west who are weary of the strife and plots engendered and set afoot by this organization will be found ready and waiting for whatever may come. There will be as hot a time as the I. W. W. may engage itself to meet.

Since the deportation of the I. W. W. agitators from Bisbee, Arizona, some weeks ago, threats have been freely made that reprisals would be taken. During the present week the president of the United States has been warned that in the event of failure to promptly release the deported men now interned in New Mexico under federal guard a great strike will be launched in the west and that a quarter of a million men will leave the harvests to destruction in the fields and still every sound of industry in the ore mines now of vital importance to the government. Lately the conspiracy to cripple the military power of the United States has been carried into the Michigan copper regions. Agitators for the organization have appeared in many sections not usually invaded by them to preach against the war, to counsel strikes, urge sabotage and stir rebellion against the new army law.

All this is a situation with which the federal government must at length come to deal. That it will do so with rigor need not be doubted. The action of the little mob in Butte increases the difficulty of the situation by giving the I. W. W. adherents a real occasion, a genuine grievance, whereas they had none before. There is no danger that the organization will be able to run Butte any more than it was able to run Bisbee and other Arizona mining camps. The majority of American workers are American and abominate and abhor the I. W. W. propaganda of violence, destruction and anarchic lawlessness. Yet there is the real threat of violent outbreaks and bloody clashes in the west.

PROHIBITION PASSES SENATE.

War or no war, John Barleycorn is to go. That is, John Barleycorn is to go if the national house of representatives can be persuaded ed in sufficient majority to follow the steps of the United States senate. The upper branch of congress has adopted the Sheppard resolution to submit the question of a bone-dry constitutional amendment to the states for ratification. In the present state of prohibition sentiment in the country as well as in congress and with the salutary example of the senate fresh before it, it is not greatly open to doubt that the house will concur in the resolution and send the big wet and dry issue to the states for final and complete settlement.

The resolution, as adopted by the senate, embodies a provision that the states must ratify the amendment within the period of the next six years or the resolution will become invalid. This provision is believed by good lawyers to be unconstitutional, but it has been accepted by the prohibition advocates in the senate as setting up no practical barrier to the due arrival of a dry nation. They are satisfied that three-fourths of the states can be got to ratify the amendment within the time limit. This doubtless is the fact. More than half the states already are either dry or have taken measures to become so. Indiana will pass into the prohibition column next April. Other states, where prohibition sentiment has been a steadily rising tide for some time will doubtless join the dry procession when their legislatures meet again or go still farther and ratify the federal amendment to make abolition of the traffic total in all the land. That is the end to which the traffic has been headed for a good many years and with steadily increasing pace within the past decade. Since the beginning of the war radical restriction and even complete extinction of the drink traffic have been strongly urged and one expedient or the other has been fairly well assured since the food control bill, of which restriction is an essential part, went under debate in congress. If the house should make a prompt and affirmative disposition of the resolution just adopted by the senate it would perhaps not so much matter about the food bill drink restrictions save as war measures—which primarily they are meant to be—though whatever may serve to diminish the evil will be useful and welcome whenever it may come.

What the senate has done was forecasted a few years ago when a similar resolution was up, but failed because congress did not give it the required constitutional majority, though there were more votes for than against it. That was considered a great gain, a half-victory, indeed; and it was the jubilant prophecy of the temperance people that when congress should again vote upon such a resolution it would carry. Of course it is in the power of the house to defeat the matter, but that is regarded as quite improbable. If a federal amendment to make the United States of America bone-dry goes to the legislatures of the states for ratification it will be ratified and we do not believe that will be anything like six years in process.

INVITING AN INVASION.

There is nothing specially to the credit of the city council in its declination to assume responsibility for action on the gasoline tank issue. There should have been no want of frankness and dispatch to back away from a wrong position and to say that the council has too much sense to try to vindicate an error or confirm a blunder.

It is imaginable that if the state fire marshal, to whose authority the council has now deferred, should have come in here attempting to impose rules, regulations and procedures for local government that are properly the council's functions, there would have been a ready and indignant protest against invasions and usurpations. The council ought to settle this thing in the right way and have done with it, preserving the safe practices of a quarter of a century in the interest of public security against needless hazards.

It may be the council believes an opinion from the state fire marshal will be a good and perhaps necessary reinforcement of plain horse sense. In any event, it is well that since the council itself declines responsibility, the matter is to be determined at least by authority putatively of expert grade. We have no notion that the Indiana fire marshal will approve the establishment of unnecessary hazards of fire and explosion.

President Wilson has impressed the house and senate conferees with the wisdom of his views on food control and there will be just one controller and there will be no meddling commission and no smelling committee on expenditures for the war. That is making sure of a good deal that is quite right from a congress that displays a great penchant for getting wrong.

If the plans framed and approved in the senate of the United States do not miscarry old John Barleycorn has just six years in which to wind up his affairs, settle his doubtful estate and breathe his last. To a good many that will seem like an undeserved shrift.

The cast is suffering a deal and sacrificing a lot to the brand of weather that has swept the land, but what is the loss in that section is the gain in every field where corn is growing.

"Fare, please! All the glad ones, and the sad ones; all the good ones, and the bad ones—get on here!"

SONNET—"THE DIVINE COMEDY."

(This sonnet is repeated. It appeared in the issue of Friday, July 27, in such form that we, who are its own fond parent, could scarcely recognize its face. The word "dew-be-sprent" was printed "dew-be-spent," one line was omitted, and a "corrected line" from another part of the col put in its place. In other words this sonnet seemed to have come back from the front without having had the kind attentions of either surgeon or I. C. nurse. We pray that Jove or Juno or whatever god presides over the weary fingers of the line-man will come to our aid—we are spent with sweat, blood and tears; but the sonnet must have its chance!)

Ort in my boyish hours all wonder-bound,
With livid cheek, and burning, rapt attent,
I read, O Dante! how thy soul was sent
To speak tormented shades whose horrid sound—
Or shrieks, or blasphemies—made thee to shroud
On long crags, nebulous, in groves where leant
Great Alp-high trees with hell's fire dew-be-sprent;
And reading thus I felt thy various wound.

With thee I drank thy nectar and despair;
With thee I laughed thy mad, sweet merriment;
Thy Beatrice I worshipped and found fair;
(For her I poured my spirit's lavishment;
In kombrest hell or whitest heaven my prayer
Was but for strength to taste thy sacrament!

SCANDALMONGERS.

Senator Townsend of Michigan put the matter bluntly to his associates who all of a sudden have discovered that the advisory commission of the council of national defense is made up of abandoned wretches who can not be trusted.
"It is not a question of commission we have to fear," he said; "it is the horde of vultures who have swooped down on Washington looking for fat contracts, and who, disappointed at not getting them, have become scandalmongers, vilifying those who have kept them from getting their clutches on the government's money; that's where these vile charges come from."

Parliamentary limitations made it impossible for Mr. Townsend to apply those remarks to various members of the senate, but he might have done so with absolute truth. The horde that has swooped down on Washington looking for fat contracts operates outside of that body. The scandalmongers who vilify the volunteers of the advisory commission do their no less contemptible work on the inside. Although Mr. Townsend mentioned no names, if the people are interested in the persons that he had in mind they will find enlightenment in every debate and roll-call on the food control bill. The scandalmongers regularly speak and vote for the vultures at home and abroad, and they do not appear to care who knows it.

HIS GIBRALTAR!

John Barleycorn and Robin Hop

(Christian Science Monitor.)

The great twin brethren, John Barleycorn and Robin Hop, are making a tremendous effort to prevent the sentence of public opinion from being imposed upon them. Little by little the world is beginning to realize, however, that the evidence against the defendants is too strong. The plea that between them and all their friends they only caused the destruction of some 110,000,000 bushels of food in a year is regarded as rather aggravating the crime than otherwise. Most people, indeed, are under the impression that they had better make no defense at all if they cannot make a better one than this. As a matter of fact, the United States spent, during the year ending the 30th of June, 1916, $2,438,037, 985 in drink, whilst the revenue on liquor from all sources, during the same period, amounted to $247,453, 543. Consequently, after obtaining this revenue, the country was still $2, 190,584,442 to the bad. This would leave a handsome balance of $190, 584,442 after subsidizing the liberty loan over again, even if there were nothing more at stake than the mere waste of so huge a sum on mere sensual enjoyment. Indeed, as has been pointed out, the liquor traffic collects the national revenue from the consumer, and charges him one thousand per cent. commission for the service, which is equivalent to giving the collector of taxes one dollar for every ten cents he pays into the treasury.

This, however, is only the beginning of the national loss. The real national loss has to be considered in the cost of the maintenance of prisons, in hospitals filled with diseases caused by drink, in the incalculable loss to the labor market, and above all in the gravity of the presence of a veritable nation of outcasts who have come to stand more and more beyond the borders of civilized society. A well known prison reformer pointed out not long since that one of the greatest difficulties of prison reform was the existence of a mass of human scum and jetsam thrown up every year on the streets as the prison doors were opened on them. The secret of reforming the scum and jetsam, he insisted, had not yet been discovered, but the fact that it was added to year by year was one of the dangers with which the social system was faced. Now it is a well known fact, vouched for by practically the whole body of those who have been interested in prison reform and prison life, that the cause of nearly all crime is drink. When, therefore, the drink bill of a nation has been paid, it constitutes only the veriest fraction of the cost of that drink to the nation.

In a few days from now the representatives of the United States in congress will be called upon to decide whether or no the prohibition amendment to the constitution shall be submitted to the states for ratification. The position of progress will be judged largely by the result. The action of the house of representatives in passing the prohibition clauses in the food bill leaves little doubt as to the view of that house, and it is not believed that a different fate would have been reserved for the bill in the senate, if the obstructionists there had not prevented it from being brought to a vote. Indeed, if they had thought that they could defeat it, there would have been no need for obstruction. After all, however, if the prohibition clauses in the food bill had been passed into law, they would have lasted only for the period of the war. It may be that it would have been difficult to repeal them, but they would all the same have been subject to repeal at any moment. With national prohibition before the country, as an amendment to the constitution, the conditions will be very different. If the resolution passes congress, it will go to the states for confirmation, and it will not be removed from the consideration of the states until the required majority necessary to make a dry nation has been obtained. This will be more satisfactory, in a way, than any other method. The fight will be made on a straight issue in which there will be no argument left to the anti-prohibitionist except the ancient and discredited one of calling names.

The defenders of drink have, indeed, a sense of humor very much on all fours with the criminal instinct of the wicked Baronet, in Riddigors, which was to be an unoffending person to the banisters and make faces at him. It is true that, as the ancient retainer said, it is simply rude—nothing more, but it is what the professors of drink are doing all the time by way of wit. You have only to look at the pictures in the comic papers to discover that. Every prohibitionist apparently wears a seedy frock coat, a tall silk hat considerably the worse for wear, trousers much too short, and black gloves with holes in the fingers. Everybody, of course, knows by this time, what an exceedingly true picture this is of the prohibitionist, and everybody admires the courage of the comic papers' editors with such originality, and feels distinctly inclined to congratulate them on the indulgence of the readers who continue to subscribe for them. Now, if the editors of those papers and all the draftsmen who produce their drawings would only attend the saloons, late in the evening, they might supply the void with some pictures of the drink professors, those who have taken degrees in alcohol, pictures which would not be dependent upon imagination, but drawn from life.

It is, obviously, not for nothing that one of the most brilliant of the world's meant little thinking. Seventeen centuries, indeed, before the Dean of St. Patrick's day, Pliny declared that fact had already passed into a proverb, "in proverbium cessit," declared, "sapientian vino obumbrari." The world, however, though it has freely quoted and is always unconsciously freely quoting the proverbial philosophers, from Solomon and Publius Syrus to George Herbert and Poor Richard, not to mention Mr. Tipper, does so with all the perfunctoryness of habit. A dinner the perfunctoryness of habit, however, in the Augustan age was, however, a very serious matter to Swift, and so he computed, by the bottle, the exact condition of his host and fellow guests to transact business afterwards. Things may be said to have changed, indeed to have improved since Swift's day. Nevertheless Swift's grim comment about the effect of drink on the thinkers remains as true today as when it was uttered. Men who are under the influence of the bottle are not in a condition to do the world's thinking, and even should they be able to do the world's thinking when they are sober, the whole of the time when they are not sober must be deducted from the sum total of their usefulness.

The world, however, is improving. It would be impossible today, for instance, for a British Prime Minister, accompanied by the attorney-general and the Lord Chancellor to gallop past an open turnpike gate.

"His reason dro'nd in Jenkinson's champagne," without paying the toll, and with a bullet from the turnpike keeper's blunderbuss whistling past his ears. Today, we have at least changed all that. In the city of Portland, Ore., they have closed the office of the public defender on the ground that previous month, has taken the bread out of his mouth by leaving him practically no body to defend. Here is another glorious example for John Barleycorn and Robin Hop to add to the instances of suffering in the brief for their defense. Prohibition is putting an end to crime. Therefore, it should be at once suppressed, lest the out-of-work population be re-enforced by a whole army of jailers, police, and holders of all such, at present unfortunately necessary, offices. In the words of a notice recently issued in support of the liquor interests, "The unhappiness and poverty of thousands of families dependent upon these interests" must be protected. Think of it!

Well! The protection will have come, no matter how much it may be dreaded, but from national prohibition and not from John Barleycorn or Robin Hop.

U-BOAT BASES PRIZE OF BATTLE

(Indianapolis Star.)

The offensive launched by the British and French on the west front may alter the entire war situation within a very short time. It apparently is the intention to turn the right wing of the German army and to gain control of the Belgian shore line. The success of such an attempt would deprive Germany of its submarine bases at Zebrugge and would hamper the Kaiser's forces on land, on sea and in the air.

The Belgian shore line held by the Germans is not more than thirty miles long. A drive of that distance would carry the allied army to the Holland border and shut Germany from access to the sea in that part of the world. A drive of even half the distance to Holland would place the allies in position to shell the submarine bases with long-range guns. And anything that would deprive the central powers of their bases along the Belgian coast would upset the entire U-boat program.

An allied success which would drive the Germans back from the coast would be a heavy blow to the Kaiser's army and would put an end to the raids on Great Britain. Airmen under such conditions would have to be sent to the British lines to get to Britain. That might be done, but those lines would have to be recrossed in getting back, and that, too, after allied aviators had been warned and were prepared for the returning raiders.

The tremendous importance attached to the strip of coast line they hold was shown when the Germans made their desperate attempts at getting through to Calais and extending and strengthening their grip on a sea outlet. The allies, of course, may not carry the present offensive to a complete success, any more than the Germans did, but the move apparently was carefully planned and is backed with unlimited munitions and men that give promise of important results.

FROM THE SENTINEL PAGES 25 YEARS AGO

The cool wave of yesterday and today has been enjoyed by all.

Councilman R. B. Hanna has returned from his outing at Lake Maxinkuskee.

This edition of The Sentinel is published on a new Cox Duplex press just installed.

Ben Lehman, of the U. S. Clothing house, has been spending the past week at Youngstown, O., visiting friends.

The name of Col. D. N. Foster has been suggested for the district chairmanship of the republican committee. C. C. Schlatler and family, who have been visiting in Wayne county for some time past, have returned to the city.

Two new mailcarriers have been added to the force by Postmaster Higgins, one for Lakeside and another for the Peeble-Minded Institute.

Two electric cars for the Hanna street line were run south on Calhoun street last evening and the general supposition was that this morning that line would be using only electric cars.

A charming birthday celebration was given last evening at 111 North Cass street in honor of Miss Frank Velvick and Miss Crescence Koehle, it being their twenty-second birthday. Among those present were: Misses Mollie Rhinemyer, Sadie Rhinemyer, Lou Higeman, Millie Witte, Mary Parrot, Alice Kintz, Mary Nies, Florence Tappan, Frank Velvick, Crescence Koehle, Lola Echlis, Messrs. C. Parrot, C. Bayer, F. Bayer, Aurtha Echlis, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Velvick, Mr. and Mrs. B. Tappan, Mr. and Mrs. Ecklis.

Hugh Beaver was nineteen years of age yesterday and last evening the event was celebrated at the Lakeside home of his parents. Those present were: Misses May Brown, of Lafayette; Emma Tippet, of Decatur; Lila Han and Mable Reed, Cora Wilkinson, Grace Liggett, Faria Mendenhall, Elizabeth Bush, Kittie Bossler, Laura Bradley, and Messrs. Archie Bradley, John Moring, Hugh and Harvey Beaver, Clarence Smith, Phares Liggett, Hugh and Frank Hartman, Frank Holsworth, Elvin Hulise and John Anderson.

OFFERS PRIZE FOR BEST DRILLED TEAM

Special Inducement for Members of Local Rifle Club.

Members of the Fort Wayne Rifle and Revolver club are taking greater interest in their drilling following the announcement by Fred Zollars, a member of the club, that he will offer a prize to the best drilled team of the organization. Captains of the teams are busy instructing their men in shooting and the competition will be keen.

Two more teams have been entered in the contest. The captains of these teams are O. E. Archibald, sharpshooter, and J. W. Patch, expert.

Notices will be sent out this week giving complete regulations for the match and practice will begin at once. The various captains have until the middle of September to instruct their men for the match.

A number of new men were enrolled at the meeting of the drill squad at Swinney park Wednesday evening. Capt. H. C. Bradley states that all men subject to conscription are welcome to drill with teams, regardless of whether they are members. The next drill is to be held at Swinney park Thursday evening at 7:15. The drill takes place west of the tennis courts.

famous drive on the old French fortress of Verdun. The battle lasted for several months, and the Germans gained some ground. But since then they have lost practically all that they gained at Verdun and more. That same year, on July 1, the French and the English forces, began the equally famous Battle of the Somme, which lasted for five months, and which resulted in the Allies advancing their lines considerably.

"And all this time there was fighting in Russia and the Balkan states, too," added Jimmy.

"Yes," said Uncle Harry. "First the Russians made big gains in Galicia, which is in the eastern part of Austria, but later they were driven back and the Germans and Austrians gained a lot of Russian territory. Germany also swept through Serbia, capturing thousands of prisoners and destroying much property. Later Germany repeated that performance in Rumania."

"But Germany has been defeated on the sea, hasn't she?" asked Helen.

"Yes, indeed," said Uncle Harry. "After several battles the German warships that were at sea at the beginning of the war, were either destroyed or captured or driven into neutral ports, where they stay until the end of the war. Even the submarine warfare, as wonderful and terrible as it has been, has not been a success, because it has failed to do what Germany said it would do—starve England."

"And then in March of this year came the biggest surprise of the war, and what may prove to be the most important development of the entire three years—the revolution in Russia. With the Czar overthrown and the principal officers of the imperial government, either dead or in prison, the last chance of Russia making a separate peace with Germany is gone. Russia is for universal and permanent peace, but not a separate peace and will go on fighting."

"Then the United States entered the war," said Joe.

"And finally—right on the heels of Russia overthrowing the autocracy of the Czar, the United States joined the Allies," said Uncle Harry.

"Now tell us about the losses in the war; you just said it was the greatest war in the history of the world," said Jimmy.

"Not this evening, folks, some other time," said Uncle Harry. "You remind me and I'll tell you about the losses in the war, both in men and dollars, and I'll tell you about the millions of soldiers who have been taken prisoners."

Editor's Note—Uncle Harry will be glad to answer inquiries, either in this column or by mail, provided letters are signed with the full name and address of the persons writing. The correspondents' names will not appear in the articles. Copyright 1917 by The M-C Syndicate Philadelphia, Pa.

Uncle Harry Gives A History of The Great War

"Who can tell me what happened three years ago today?" asked Uncle Harry.

The members of the club hesitated for a moment, and then it seemed that all three spoke as one voice: "The war started!"

"Three years ago today—August 2, 1914," said Uncle Harry.

1914, the German army attacked France, and for more than 1,000 days the fighting has continued unceasingly," said Uncle Harry. "It has been the biggest, the most awful, the bloodiest and the most costly war in the history of the world. The most marvelous inventions of the human mind, which should have been used to help the human race, have been turned into instruments of destruction. Whole nations have been laid in waste. Thousands of cities have been blown off the face of the earth. Millions of men have been killed and millions were wounded. Billions upon billions of dollars have been spent, and—"

"Won't any good come of all this terrible loss?" asked Helen.

"Yes, children, not merely good, but great good, must come out of the war," said Uncle Harry, speaking slowly and seriously. "The world should have known how to settle its quarrels without resorting to war. But it is evident that the world did not. However, since August, 1914, the people who make up the world have learned their lesson. When peace comes you can rest assured that the people who have sacrificed so much during these three awful years are going to make sure that thereafter the power to make war and declare war rests in their own hands and not in the hands of any small groups of men in any nation."

"Won't you tell us about the war?" asked Joe. "So many, many things have happened in the last three years."

COMPANY B TO BE INSPECTED

Signal Corps Secures Use of the Concordia College Grounds for Drill.

DRUM CORPS WILL ARRIVE FRIDAY

Company E Will Endeavor to Secure Ball Park for Drilling.

Company B, signal corps, will have federal inspection Saturday night at 8 o'clock at Concordia college grounds. Lieutenant Drennan, of the Tenth infantry, U. S. A., will be the inspecting officer.

Permission has been secured by the officers of the company to use the Concordia college grounds as a drilling place, following the mobilization Sunday morning.

All members of the company are ordered to report at headquarters in the Old National bank building not later than 6:30 o'clock, eastern time. All non-resident members will be housed in the headquarters at Calhoun and Berry streets.

The battalion adjutant of the signal corps has organized a drum corps, composed partly of men from Indianapolis and others from Fort Wayne, who will lead the company in all the marches and parades in the city. This body of musicians will arrive in the city Friday evening.

Company E officers are now endeavoring to secure permission from the Fort Wayne Base Ball association management to use the park as a drilling place and also secure a lease on Liberty hall. These two places had been secured by Battery B, but since they are to depart Sunday they will be of no use to this organization.

Regular Army.

Twenty-eight men were shipped from the Fort Wayne regular army recruiting station Wednesday evening. Major Ryan stated that there would be at least seventy-five tonight, as the big bunch from Hammond are expected to arrive before evening.

Major Ryan has received official notification from Washington, D. C., that all men who enlisted before June 30 helped to reduce the number of men who are to be called on the first draft. All those men who have enlisted since that date will aid in bringing the number of men chosen for the second draft to a smaller number.

Examination Saturday. The thirteen men who have not as yet undergone a physical examination are ordered to come to the court house Saturday for examination.

By previous orders Sunday was the time for the mobilization of this unit as well as all other national guard units. The order to come to Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, came unexpectedly and the officers and members of the battery who have been on duty at the court house in the interest of recruiting busied themselves at once in preparing for the departure and the housing of those men who do not reside in the city.

The battery will leave over the Lake Erie & Western railroad some time Sunday morning. It is believed that they will be in a position to depart by 10 o'clock, standard time, as ordered. This is 11 o'clock, Fort Wayne time. Major Carter will arrive in the city Friday to aid in the preparations for departure.

Preparations have already begun by the patriotic council in giving the boys a turnout on the day of their departure. To members of Battery B are requested to bring the following articles with them upon reporting Sunday morning: Tooth brush and paste, comb and brush, soap and towels, shaving outfit, needles and drab thread, several pairs of socks, extra suit of underwear, and extra shirt. Men are asked not to wear overalls as they are injurious to the feet in drilling.

NONE ALLOWED TO MISS TEST

All Who Fail to Appear for Examination Will Be Passed.

NO MORE EXEMPTION BLANKS TO GO OUT

Rule That Physical Test Must Come First Will Be Kept.

Don't shirk from the physical examination, Comrade Conscript. If you do the draft board will mark you passed physically and will consider that you are ready for service.

Don't apply for your draft exemption affidavits now. The conscription boards will not give out any more of the exemption claim blanks until after physical tests have been made. The board members hold that such action is wasted at this time as the exemption subject may be rejected physically and no formal claims will be necessary.

Don't delay in taking action if you have registered elsewhere and wish to be examined in Fort Wayne. Persons will be allowed to be examined in other cities from those in which they are registered, but they must take out proper statements at once as the examination day is drawing nearer.

The first men in the city district No. 3 will be examined on Saturday. Examinations for district No. 1 will start Sunday and tests in the second district will begin on Monday.

More than 70 men a day will be examined in each of the districts, when the work starts. Four men will be examined at once. The physician on the board in each city section will have two or three assistants to aid in the work.

In each district several more men than the quota named will be taken. This is to allow for exemptions in case of successful appeals to higher boards. In the second district where 107 men are to be taken, 115 men will be selected by the draft board. About ten more men than are asked for will be named by the boards in other districts.

Must Give Notice.

Young men whose names were drawn early in the great lottery and who have since gone into army service must acknowledge their notice for appearance before the draft boards. They must file an affidavit for exemption on the grounds that they are already in military service.

A formal statement on the subject has been prepared by local boards as follows:

"A man who claims exemption because he has enlisted in the military or naval service of the United States may, when he is called, file his claim for exemption for that reason. If thereupon the board is of the opinion that there is reasonable grounds for believing that such person is entitled to exemption on the grounds stated, the board will postpone the physical examination until after the claim shall have been heard.

"In support of such claim for exemption such person, however, must file the necessary affidavits within ten (10) days after the filing of claim for exemption, as provided in regulations 16 and 18.

"It appears, therefore, that men who have enlisted since registration must file their claim for exemption to avoid physical examination."

The object of the forced acknowledgment of the draft notice is to head off slackers. One of the district board members believes that one young man has mailed a letter to the conscription officers, stating that he is in the army, is in Fort Wayne. The men say they have heard that the draft subject has never left the city and his military notice is a fake.

If the case is found to be as the board members suspect the young man will be handed over to police at once. He will later be charged with army desertion. Any attempt to evade the draft action will bring a desertion charge, conscription men show.

Ringling Motto.

Above the entrance to the three district draft headquarters have been placed bright red and white banners which read, "Ye youth who enter here were called to make our world safe for democracy."

The patriotic decorations give no war enthusiasm to the young men who are calling at the draft board offices these days, however. Not a fellow has expressed his eagerness to face the Kaiser's wrath when he talked with board members.

Any Notary.

The exemption affidavits must be sworn to before a notary public, the draft law reads. Any notary public in the city has authority to swear citizens to the exemption statements. No notaries will be in the draft board offices.

Latest ruling by the provost marshal general holds that local boards will not permit applicants to appear by attorney, nor will they hear oral argument or receive written legal briefs.

The First Step.

Instructions prepared by the provost general for conscriptible men and bearing upon their action after the notices have been received, reads:

"You must report for physical examination on the day named in your call."

"(a) If you are found physically disqualified the board will give you a certificate which will explain to you what your further duties are.

claim of exemption to file proof in support of your claim of exemption.

"(c) If you are found physically qualified and file no claim for exemption, or if you do not appear for physical examination, your name will be posted to the district board as one who was called for military service and was not exempted or discharged. On the eighth day after call, or within two days thereafter, copies of the list of persons so posted to the district boards will be given to the press with a request for publication, will be posted in a place at the office of the local board accessible to the public view, and notice will be mailed to you at the address on your registration card.

"Therefore watch the notices posted in the office of the board about ten days after the day you were called and make arrangements for the prompt receipt of mail."

HEAVY BOND FOR NEGRO RAVISHER

Black Who Attacked White Woman Has Brief Hearing.

Five minutes were taken in finding George Ellis, 31, negro, probably guilty of a criminal attack on a white woman in police court Thursday morning. Ellis is bound to Allen circuit court under $1,500 bond on the assault charge.

The woman, who lives at the corner of Harrison and DeWald streets, told that Ellis entered her bedroom when she was sleeping, Wednesday afternoon. She was awakened by his presence, and kicked violently and screamed. The negro fled. The woman called the police.

Jack Douvall and Homer Fisk, the two young men who were arrested by Sergeant Detectives Randall and Junk Wednesday when the defendants were trying to sell an automobile at a West Main street garage for $50, are held for Akron, O., officers. The youths admit that they took the small machine from the streets of Akron on Monday. They will be tried in Ohio on the grand larceny charge.

Was Closing Time.

Manford Wineker, 3333 Wabash avenue, wanted his bicycle repaired Wednesday night at 8:30. Elsie Wilkinson, who runs the repair shop at 617 Clinton street, would not do the work because it was closing hour. A rough house followed. Wilkinson was fined $1 and costs on an assault and battery charge. He will appeal.

Took Micrometers.

Charles Bolmet took two micrometers with him when he left the employ of the General Electric works several days ago. He sold one of the delicate instruments. Detective Sergeant Peter Junk was summoned after the sale was made. The youth was held on a petit larceny charge and pleaded guilty to the complaint. Judge Kerr fined him $10 and costs and affixed a suspended jail sentence of thirty days.

Bought Wrong Wool.

Mrs. Abe Ochstein and Mrs. Elita Hoffman are alleged to have purchased a quantity of wool Wednesday, which had been stolen from the rear yard of a relative of Mrs. Ochstein. Both women face charges of having purchased stolen property. They will be tried on August 8.

Other Police Court Cases.

Over a dispute over property rights the whole Lauer family, living on Hanna street, will face trespassing charges because they stepped foot on the Schmidt family premises when cleaning windows on the Schmidt side of the Lauer home on Wednesday. The case will be tried on Friday.

Carl Fryback and Brent Fryback will be tried on August 14 on a charge of selling a team of horses which had been mortgaged.

Cases of public intoxication were: Charles Stiles, fined $40 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in jail; Dixie Sullivan, fined $5 and costs; Charles Martin, $1; Philip Brady, aged 75, was released after pleading guilty to an intoxication complaint.

Ethel DeLoong, charged with loitering, will be sentenced on Friday.

George Howell, suspected of being a slacker, although he claims to be but twenty years old, was turned over to Federal Commissioner Logan for investigation. Howell is a colored lad who came from Texas since June 6, he says.

Eric Lawson is held under $250 bond until August 6 on a loitering charge. His sanity will be tested.

SCHOOLS OPEN SEPTEMBER 4

Three New Recitation Rooms Are Being Made in High School.

COAL THIS YEAR TO COST $8,000 MORE

School Board Reorganizes and Elects A. L. Randall President.

Vacation days can soon be numbered without much trouble. All the public schools in the city will open on Tuesday morning, September 4, according to an announcement made by Prof. Justin N. Study, superintendent of the schools, Thursday morning.

In order to provide accommodations for the new scholars who will enter this term in the high school, three of the larger recitation rooms on the first and second floors of the building are being divided, which will add three recitation rooms to the already large number.

At the meeting of the school board Wednesday afternoon the yearly contract for coal was awarded to the Pioneer Coal company. There were several bidders.

The board postponed the letting of the contract for coal under the impression that there would be a decided drop in the price following the investigation of the coal commission. It was high time that the contract be awarded and consequently action had to be taken.

The coal for the public schools of the city will cost approximately $8,250 more this year than it did last year. Soft coal will cost the board $2.20 more a ton this year. Last year it required 3,540 tons of soft coal and 148 tons of hard coal to keep all the buildings in running condition.

At the meeting Wednesday afternoon the school board was reorganized. A. L. Randall was named president; Ernest W. Cook, secretary, and W. H. Shambaugh, treasurer.

DIDN'T WANT SHIRT COLLARS STARCHED

Vera Maurer Filed Cross Complaint for Divorce Against Charles.

Vera Maurer, defendant in a divorce suit filed against her by Charles Maurer, has filed a cross complaint in the superior court. She alleges that Charles had such an ungovernable temper that he would tear the collars off his shirts when he found that they were starched.

The cross complaint also avers that they were married on April 15, 1917, and that she left him on June 14, after living with him became unbearable. She charges that the plaintiff in the divorce case had been inflicting black and blue marks all over her body as the result of cruel treatment.

The defendant further states that the plaintiff would take the money she earned by working and buy shoes with it and that he would become so angry at times that he would repair to his bedroom, pull down the curtains and remain there all day.

Suit on Contract.

Daniel Erwin and H. S. Mallard, partners, known as the Erwin Real Estate agency, have begun suit against Ferdinand Reinking asking for $400 damages for alleged violation of contract.

Wants $200 Judgment.

J. F. McComb has begun suit against Maurice C. Runyan et al, on complaint that a promissory note has not been paid. He asks for $200.

Suit on Note.

Asking for a judgment of $55, A. P. Addison has sued Harry Crosby on complaint that a note has not been paid and that it is long past due.

Registration is Over.

Since the declaration of the supreme court that the constitutional convention law was invalid at which time registration stopped at once, hundreds of people have appeared at the county clerk's office asking where they must go to register for this election. Again it is stated that there will be no election consequently no registration.

Charges Non-support.

Charging non-support, Esther Kelly has begun suit for divorce against Robert Kelly. She further charges that the defendant has been cruel and inhuman to her, inasmuch that he called her vile names and threatened to strike her. She says she is the mother of a baby aged four months. She asks for an order restraining the defendant from molesting her and enjoining him from molesting her and enjoining him from molesting her and enjoining him from molesting her.

Partition of Property.

Minnie Hildebrand has begun suit against Clara Bruck et al, for partition of some real estate.

Marriage Licenses.

HENRY WOULD PREFER HOSPITAL TREATMENT

Does Not Like Being Held for Fast Collecting Charges.

"Fleet Fingered" Harry Henry, as he is known in Indianapolis, an old home town, has branded Fort Wayne as "no good." They do not know how to treat a first-class crook in this place, Harry infers. He says he is sick and wants to go to the hospital. Instead he is held in an unsanitary cell by police.

Pennsylvania Railroad Detective James Huesey, captain of the Vandalia police out of Indianapolis, was in Fort Wayne Thursday to register claims against Henry. He tells that the man short-changed Byron Eure, of Kansas City out of $230 a few weeks ago. He would take Henry back to Indianapolis for trial after local police are through with the fellow who has a jail record as long as a conscript's countenance. Henry is held under heavy bond for trial on Monday.

COOL WAVE IS HERE FOR COUPLE OF DAYS

Although slightly warmer weather is promised Friday, there is no heat wave in sight such as has been experienced here for the past few days, according to P. McDonough, in charge of the Fort Wayne office of the United States weather bureau. At 2 o'clock the thermometer registered only 79 degrees, as compared with 93 degrees at the same time Wednesday. Mr. McDonough believes that cool wave will continue for a couple or three days.

NEW CLERK APPOINTED.

Fred C. Miller, night clerk at the postoffice, has resigned to take a position at the Electric works. D. P. Breitenbach, of Vanatah, will succeed Miller in the capacity of night clerk, according to Postmaster Miller, as soon as Mr. Breitenbach can become accustomed to the duties of the new position. In the meantime a shift in the force will be made to take care of the vacancy.

HOTTEST DAYS OF EACH YEAR

July Holds Record for Maximum Heat During Past Years.

HUNDRED HIGHEST TEMPERATURES GIVEN

Weather Man Says It is Really Warmer Than Thermometer Shows.

In sedate circles of men who have lived through scores of sultry, stifling summers, discussions augmented by the heat of the past few days as to the hottest days experienced in this section are many.

Many elderly men can remember the day back in the '80's when it was so hot that ducks and geese pulled out their own feathers in an effort to keep cool.

From the records kept at the government weather bureau station in the Shoaff building it is discovered that the highest temperature ever recorded in Fort Wayne was 100 degrees. It is also found that the month of July holds the record of having the most maximum temperatures for the year.

The following table as compiled by Patrick McDonough shows the maximum temperatures since the year 1897:

Year	Date	Temp.
1897	July 9	100
1898	July 14	97
1899	July 24	94
1899	Aug. 11	97

MAY BE LAST YEAR FOR GRAND CIRCUIT

Poor Attendance and Lack of Interest Shown at Kalamazoo.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Aug. 2.—Poor attendance and lack of interest shown at the Kalamazoo grand circuit meeting and it is reported that this year's meeting may be the last year.

A shower last night put the track in splendid condition for the three races on today's schedule, the 2:10, 2:21 and 2:21. The 2:10 race was cancelled. There are good fields eligible in each race. The two races are for $1,000 purses.

Ben Allen and Gene of Chance seem favorites for the 2:10 race. Roy Lusk, the horse that won the big stake at Detroit last week, repeated his victory yesterday, winning the 2:10 stake for $10,000. The race was won in straight heats, the time, 2:05 1/4, being a record. Walter Cox was the driver and his victory was the third won by him in this event of the grand circuit.

Pop Geers had a good chance to win in the 2:21 race, but his horse, Spy Direct, broke in the fifth heat, after he had taken the third and fourth. Ben Billings won this event.

CAN'T COUNT HIM OUT—HONUS WAGNER HANDS CRITICS A JOLT BY SWATTING AT TERRIFIC RATE.

(By Paul Purnan).
His delivery has been written and re-written. Time and again he has been counted out.

His batting eye, they said, had disappeared. His feet, they murmured, had given away.

But John T. Wagner—Honus—flooded them all.

He is out there on the ball lot every day at first base or third and National League pitchers are learning that the batting eye which was supposed to be gone is almost as bright as in former years.

All of which recalls a statement Clark Griffith once made about batting eyes. "It isn't the batting eye that counts," Griffith opened. "It's just the natural faculty of batting. There was never a pitcher who could fool natural batters like Wagner, Lajoie, Cap Anson, Dan Brouthers or Ed Delahanty.

"Speed wouldn't stop them nor curves nor anything else a pitcher used. They would hit anything and they might go after a waste ball and hit it out of the lot just the same as they would one in the groove."

The statement was made when Griffith was asked his opinion of why a smart ball player like George McBride could never learn to hit.

"It isn't natural for McBride to hit and there are many like him, fellows like Scott of the Red Sox for instance. It is natural for some of the others."

Then Griffith made a startling statement. "I'll bet if old Cap Anson or Dan Brouthers could get some one to run to first for them they would bat better than 300 in either major league today."

All of which is open to question, of course, but which brings us back to the starting point, John T. Wagner.

Honus is in the middle of his twenty-first season and he is hitting well above 300, which might be used as an argument for Griffith's statements.

JOIE RAY HAS GREAT CHANCE TO SET TWO-MILE RECORD

JOIE RAY, America's crack distance runner, will be entered in the A. A. U. games at St. Louis this summer, but just what event he will enter Ray has not yet decided.

It is not likely he will enter the mile event for his failure at New York recently to come within striking distance of the world record probably will keep him out of that.

Should Ray decide to enter the two-mile event his performance will be watched with much interest as Ray probably will make every effort to beat the present record of 9:09 3/5 made in 1904 by Al Shrubb.

Ray's best effort at the two mile distance is just two seconds slower than Shrubb's great mile and JOIE is confident that he will be able to overcome that handicap.

Ray ran his first mile in 4:35 and his second in 4:36 2/5.

Shrubb ran his first mile in 4:27 and his second in 4:42 2/5.

Lang's first mile was negotiated in 4:27, his second in 4:44 1/5.

This is evidence that Ray was stronger at the finish than either of the others and may presage a brand new record for the distance.

LEONARD-KILBANE SET NEW HIGH FIGHT COST RECORD

When Johnny Kilbane and Benny Leonard fought at Philadelphia a few nights ago they received more money for the length of time they were in the ring than any other pair of boxers in the history of the game.

Each of the champions received $12,000 for his end, a total of $24,000 for the bout. Lasting three rounds, the boxers' share per minute was $208, an unheard-of amount.

The greatest purse ever offered two fighters was the $101,000 grab bag hung up for Jeffries and Johnson in 1910. The bout went fifteen rounds at the rate of $2,244 a minute. This is the only bout in ring history which even approximates the money received per minute by Leonard and Kilbane.

Jeffries and Fitzsimmons received $575 a minute for their eleven round bout at Coney Island in 1895, and Jeff and Corbett divided $632 a minute for their twenty-three round set-to at Coney the following year.

Boxers' pay per minute in other great bouts include:
Nelson-Britt, 18 rounds, 1905—$581.
Corbett-Fitzsimmons, 14 rounds, 1897—$282.
Ketchell-Papke, 20 rounds, 1909—$288.
Gans-Nelson, 42 rounds, 1906—$266.

FARNAN TO OFFICIATE IN SUNDAY TWIN BILL

Fans from Garrett Will Support Team Against Lincoln Lifers.

Frank Farnan will hold the indicator at all games played by the Lincoln Lifers, starting next Sunday in the double contest scheduled with Garrett.

Farnan is well known as an arbiter from the days of the old Shamrocks when he established his popularity.

A big time is being anticipated by the boys from Garrett, who, it is expected will be here in full force for the Lincoln Life games which will decide the league leadership. Two carloads of fans will be here to support the Garrett nine in the games at League park, declared Manager Sweeney.

The visitors will have three pitchers ready to start but Manager Sweeney did not disclose his choice for the initial fray. These are Palmer, Meliss and Jacks. A double win by the Lincoln Lifers will entrench them in first place in the Ohio-Indiana league, and the locals are going to bend every energy toward obtaining this result.

OSTERMEYER will be in the box for the Lincoln Lifers in the first contest Sunday. In the second it is probable that Lankenau, the Concordia college star, will do the twirling.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW SAFE.

Keggs Make Escape After Effort is Frustrated.

Kendallville, Ind., Aug. 2.—A futile attempt to "crack" the safe at the interurban station was frustrated by Percy Munaw, proprietor of the interurban grocery store, at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, when three persons were caught in the act of carrying on their work, and were frightened away. They secured nothing.

Several hours later, it was discovered the Ford automobile of Henry Reyher, parked in an alleyway at the home of his son, Clyde Reyher, on William street, had been stolen. It is presumed the trio stole this machine in making their getaway. Officials were working on the case today, with little clue, and it is feared the yeggs have made a successful escape. A suspect was picked up this morning by officers but was later released.

POISONED FISH CAUSES YOUNG WOMAN'S DEATH

Mrs. Leininger, Who Died at Hicksville, Well Known at Butler.

Butler, Ind., Aug. 2.—Mrs. Mary

Leininger, of Hicksville, Ohio, who was buried Monday, was well known in this vicinity, having visited her aunt, Mrs. Albertson, and cousin, Mrs. Myrtle Oberlin, a number of times, making many friends here. Mrs. Leininger was formerly Miss Mary Pettie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Pettie, of Hicksville. She was 24 years old and was married in December of 1915. Two weeks ago she was attacked with ptomaine poisoning and seemed to be getting along nicely until Friday, when she was taken suddenly worse and died before morning.

She was poisoned by eating fish while camping at Hamilton lake. Mrs. George Swift returned home this week from a two weeks' visit at Decatur, Ill., where she visited her sons, Earl Sewell and family and Edward Swift. Her grandson, Russell Earl Sewell, accompanied her home for a visit. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown and daughter, Nora, will spend Thursday and Friday at Hamilton, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Masters. Ralph White and family, of Toledo, Ohio; L. D. Knisely and family, H. L.

Tess and family, L. C. Harding and family and O. T. Knisely and wife spent the day at Hamilton lake. Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Farnham, sr., are entertaining their son, Dr. Waldo Farnham, of Chicago, Ill., this week. Dr. Waldo leaves the 10th for Fort Benjamin Harrison, where he is a member of the hospital corps. Mr. and Mrs. George Geddes and daughter, Letia, expect to spend next Sunday at Fort Wayne with Mr. and Mrs. Fern Sheire. Mr. and Mrs. Millard S. Stone and son, Samuel, left today for Cold Spring, Hamilton, to spend a short time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Stone, of Auburn, who are camping there. Miss Grace Lowe, who for the past three years has been the teacher of domestic science in the Monticello schools, has resigned that position and accepted a similar one in the Elkhart schools. Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Capp, of Loraine, Ohio, are spending the week in Butler with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Capp, and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lake.

ENEMY HOLDS AN ADVANTAGE

Admiral Jellicoe Explains Success of Germany's Coast Raids.

PATROL BOATS ARE MUCH HANDICAPPED

Britain Cannot Deflect General Strategy to Prevent Raids.

London, Aug. 2.—“The British navy's control of the nerve system of maritime communications of the world at this juncture is more complete than the control exercised by the army of the central powers on land,” said Admiral Jellicoe, first sea lord and chief of the naval staff in an interview with the Associated Press yesterday in which he discussed the submarine menace and the naval situation at the end of the third year of the war.

“That,” he said, “suggests perhaps a train of thought which all students of the war might pursue with interest and advantage to the allied cause. But I am content at this moment merely to emphasize the supreme importance of the work which the grand fleet is doing under the command of Sir David Beatty.”

Why Raids are Possible.

“You ask me why it is that German destroyers are able to carry out raids from time to time. Such missions are entrusted to the most efficient vessels under the German flag and they are carried out with every advantage on the side of the Germans. The North sea is a very big area of water. It is more than twice as large as the whole United Kingdom—England, Scotland and Wales and Ireland—which is traversed by nearly 24,000 miles of railway lines.

“The German destroyers wait for dark and then dash off from one of the bases situated within an hour or two of the British coast. They have the choice of the objective against a coast line of great length. There is hardly a point but is undefended, advantage having been taken of the immunity from bombardment which international law was believed, before the war to confer.

Enemy Has Advantages.

“Now mark these points: The enemy has the choice of night, when the weather and visibility are most suitable for his purpose. He puts to sea clear of his mine field. He can steam in a northerly, westerly or southerly direction. Aircraft are used for reconnaissance so as to gain information of the movement of the British patrol forces. The Germans have the further advantage of being able to fire at every craft, which comes within sight, the moment it is sighted.

“What is the position of the British patrol whose vigilance has been subjected to three years of unceasing strain? Officers have many duties to carry out apart from punishing these ‘tip and run’ raiders. They never know when the enemy ships will break out or where they will go at their highest speed and in the darkness they have to discriminate between friend and neutral on the one hand and foe on the other hand before they fire.

No Military Gain.

“Despite the advantage which the Germans enjoy no raid has resulted in the slightest military gain to Germany or loss to England. Such a policy cannot be pushed successfully unless the enemy is prepared to support his destroyers with stronger forces—in other words, risk some portion of his high sea fleet—and thus the menace of our grand fleet operates.

“We deplore the loss of life among non-combatants but after all we are engaged in a war wherein the freedom of the world depends and we cannot deflect our strategy from its main purpose. That is what the Germans hope to effect and they have failed. At the same time perhaps I may add that since the exploits of the ‘Swift’ and ‘Broke’ the enemy has attempted no raid on the British coast.

The Submarine Bases.

“This leads me to say a few words as to the destroyer and submarine bases on the Belgian coast which are in the occupation of the Germans. One is Ostend, the other is Zeebrugge. The Germans have applied to this length of sand-fringed coast the same principle of intensive fortification as higher up on the North sea and the island of Heligoland. The coast is studded with high guns which in themselves constitute infinitesimal targets at a range of more than 20,000 yards on which any bombardment could be carried out.

“Moreover the enemy has not been slow to make fullest use of aircraft and smoke screens by way of protection. Ostend offers the best target but it can only be attacked at rare intervals when a favorable combination of wind, weather and sea conditions can be attained. Zeebrugge, in the real sense of the word, is not a naval base but merely an exit from the inland port of Bruges, with which it is connected by a wide, deep-water canal. There is little to hit at Zeebrugge. Still, I hope that the problem which the Belgian coast presents is not unsolvable.”

of the lake slopes downward, they say, at an angle of not less than seventy-five degrees and that it is likely that the body rolled off into very deep water. It is said that a short distance out towards the center of the lake from the point where Huber drowned the water is several hundred feet deep.

BEITZ ON VACATION.

Arthur S. Beitz, clerk of the postmaster's office, will begin a two weeks' vacation Friday morning. He will go to Lake James to join his family, where he expects to find good fishing.

PERSHING AT ENCAMPMENTS

The General's Statement.

At the end of the first day's inspection, General Pershing said:

“Our principal concern just now, of course, is to perfect the army organization. This is a big task, but it is moving along smoothly and in a most satisfactory manner.

“The work at certain ports of disembarkation is well started. Railroad material is coming over as rapidly as can be arranged. The progress we have made thus far with the assistance of the French is a source of great satisfaction to me. Billets and training ground for men are as well located as could be expected at this time of the year when space is limited by crops in the fields.

Promises Portable Barracks.

“After these are removed we will have plenty of space for lodging and training the divisions that are to come. Some of the places where men are now sleeping are not all that could be desired, but this soon will be remedied by the construction of portable barracks. Training is progressing very well with the assistance of the French.”

General Pershing was untrifling in his inspection of the training area. He inquired into every phase of the men's daily life, the character and the quantity of their food, even to the disposition of garbage, which he found was going to French farmers who were delighted to obtain it.

“They take advantage of every sort of refuse containing fat,” General Pershing found the American soldiers and the French villagers living together in the greatest amity. He inquired about the washing for soldiers and found that they nearly all washed their own clothes in the village wash-houses erected along running streams, the villagers washing on one bank and the soldiers on the other.

Quizzes the Cooks.

At several company kitchens the American commander interrogated the cooks closely.

“Do you get enough to eat and to feed the men?” he asked one veteran cook who has been in the regular army for a number of years.

“Yes, sir,” replied the cook, standing at respectful attention.

“Do you get any vegetables?” asked General Pershing.

“No, sir.”

“Don't you get any potatoes?” asked General Pershing, with some surprise.

“Oh, yes, sir,” was the prompt reply.

“And onions and tomatoes?” questioned the general further.

“Yes, sir.”

“And beans?”

“Yes, sir.”

Then what do you want?”

“Nothing, sir.”

Gen. Pershing smiled and moved away, satisfied that particular company was doing very well in war time and in the war zone.

At another company kitchen the cook said the only complaint he had to make was that the company's share of canned salmon had not been forthcoming regularly.

“What do you get as a substitute?” asked the general.

“Well, our cook, sir, we get bacon,” replied the cook, somewhat subdued.

“Any other complaint?” the commander inquired.

There was none and again the general passed on, completely satisfied with prevailing conditions.

First Glimpse for Many.

Many soldiers saw General Pershing for the first time in their lives.

His visit was so unexpected at certain points of the far flung training area that the soldiers speculated at first whether he was Pershing. Several times they referred the dispute to the correspondents accompanying the officer.

“I knew it was Pershing all the time,” boasted one old trooper, “because I saw his picture in the paper and he looks just like it.”

General Pershing gave orders looking to a little smarter set up of the men in the future. A great majority of the troops now in France are recruits in the regular army and many of them are learning the art of soldiering for the first time.

They are doing remarkably well, but being plunged into actual war training all at once they naturally have neglected some smaller details that would seem unimportant to the uninitiated, but that go a long way toward establishing and maintaining the morale of an army.

General Pershing in the day found time to visit the war correspondents' headquarters and was entertained there. He will visit one or two American hospital units in the American zone tomorrow.

crushed and its originators were brought to justice. All necessary steps have been taken at the front for restoring the combative strength of the armies.

“The government intends bringing to a successful end the task of establishing an administration capable of meeting all dangers and guiding the country in the path of revolutionary regeneration. Russia will not suffer herself to be deterred by any difficulty in carrying out the irrevocable decision to continue the war to a final triumph of the principles proclaimed by the Russian revolution.

“In the presence of an enemy menace the country and the army will continue with renewed courage the great work of restoration as well as the preparation on the threshold of the fourth year of the war for the coming campaign. We firmly believe that Russian citizens will combine all efforts to fulfill the sacred task of defending the beloved country and that the enthusiasm which lighted in their breast a flame of faith in the triumph of liberty will direct the whole invincible force of Russia against the enemy who threatens the country.”

reaction resulted in some of the far advanced forces of the allies being pushed back.

Today, however, comes the announcement from London that despite the hampering rainfall the British have negated the results of one of the German counter thrusts, completely re-establishing their line in the neighborhood of the Roulers-Ypres railway as the outcome of a night attack. While there may be some inclination on the part of lay critics to regard with some misgivings the stress laid upon the bad weather by the official dispatch, military observers at the front apparently are in entire agreement with the seriousness of this handicap. The allies had established air superiority and the storm has prevented observation altogether, entailing inactivity upon the big guns that are relied upon to blast a path for the advancing infantry. To the low visibility also has been attributed such success as the Germans were able to gain in their counter attacks, the poor sighting conditions preventing the entente gunners from massing their fire effectively to break up the enemy concentrations. Despite the hard fighting in Flanders, the Germans are continuing their pronounced activities on the French front.

Paris reports two attacks on the French line east and southeast of Rheims and assaults in the Avocourt wood sector in the Verdun region and in the Apremont forest southeast of St. Mihiel. All these were fruitless for the Germans.

Some important movement apparently is under way on the Russian northern front which has been holding entirely firm, while the southern end of the line was falling back. Now, however, the Russians are reported to have evacuated the Uskuli bridgehead, 15 miles southeast of Riga, the Germans marching into the evacuated positions. The exact significance of this development is yet to be revealed.

Amendment's Action Failed.

The senate's action came after three days' debate. This was approved, 56 to 23.

As adopted, the resolution, which was submitted by Senator Sheppard, of Texas, democrat, would add the following article to the federal constitution:

“The manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

“This article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the constitution by the legislatures of the several states, as provided in the constitution, within six years from the date of the submission thereof to the states by the congress.

“The congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.”

commander in chief of the Russian armies on the southwestern front has been appointed generalissimo. Gen. Tcheremisoff, commander of the eighth army, has been appointed to succeed Gen. L. G. Korniloff on the southwestern front.

ULTIMATUM TO KERENSKY.

London, Aug. 2.—According to a Petrograd dispatch to the Post Russian army commanders had a conference at headquarters recently and virtually sent an ultimatum to Premier and Minister Kerensky that unless the army was kept outside politics and treated merely as a fighting machine, they would resign as being unable to carry on the war victoriously. The correspondent believes the ultimatum will be accepted.

Press.)—“The situation is virtually unchanged.” This sums up the day's news from the wide zone along which the British and French yesterday hurled Prince Rupprecht's forces back to the supporting defenses to a depth varying between one and three miles. Artillery activities continued with great intensity, the British pouring a steady stream of high explosive shells into positions which the Germans now hold, but there was comparatively little infantry fighting. The allies today were busy consolidating the positions they captured yesterday. Heavy German counter attacks had been looked for, but outside of a few local attempts to regain the positions these did not materialize. This was perhaps due partly to the heavy rain which continued without cessation since last night, filling shell holes into a deep mud, over which it is difficult to fight. The German guns, however, many of which had been withdrawn to positions further back before the rain began, have been carrying on a steady bombardment, especially against the territory captured by the allies on the northern side of the Ypres salient, but their firing has been more or less erratic, because of the storm, which blocked the work of the observation officers. As usual the Germans are employing great quantities of gas shells.

Due to the complete preparations made for yesterday's assault the British casualties have not been excessive but the condition of the battlefield and statements by prisoners indicate that the German losses were exceedingly heavy. The British medical corps has again evinced a most complete organization. At 6 o'clock last night all British wounded had been collected and brought back to emergency stations. More than 4,000 prisoners with some sixty officers were taken by the British in the Ypres salient. Prussians, Bavarians and Saxons all have been giving their number to the total tally and no more detected appearing men have been seen in British prison stations since the beginning of the war. Particularly noticeable was the scarcity of veteran non-commissioned officers and the large number of young men from the 1918 class who are nothing more than raw recruits. One veteran of many battles freely expressed his contempt of these youngsters who, he said, lacked stamina to stand up to the hardships of war, and could not be depended upon in a tight place as they found themselves facing yesterday.

A majority of these prisoners were a miserable, sorry looking lot, many of them suffering from internal complaints caused by exposure, and the majority from hunger. Few of them have any hopes of Germany winning the war, and one officer ventured the opinion that the time of the fatherland's downfall was near at hand. He based his opinion on the scarcity of men, and certainly his faces now in prison camps appear to be indicative of a lack of human material.

THE FRENCH REPORT.

Paris, Aug. 2.—Bad weather continues in Belgium, says the official statement by the French war department this afternoon. The Germans last night made two attacks to the east and southeast of Rheims, but both failed. On the left bank of the river Meuse there was a violent artillery duel. The Germans last night attacked in the sector of Avocourt wood without success and several attacks in Apremont forest, southeast of St. Mihiel, utterly failed.

LONDON OFFICIAL REPORT.

London, Aug. 2.—The official war statement on the battle in Flanders issued yesterday says:

“In spite of the weather, which made flying almost impossible, our airplanes kept in contact with our advancing infantry throughout the day. The enemy's airdromes, transport and infantry were also successfully attacked with bombs and machine gun fire. The few enemy machines that attempted to fly were attacked and six of them were brought down. Three of our machines are missing.

“The number of German prisoners captured in July was 4,937, of whom eighty-five were officers. These figures include such of the prisoners as were captured in yesterday's operations, who reached the collecting stations by 6 p. m. The captured material includes eight field guns, fifty-three machine guns and thirty-two trench mortars.”

ANOTHER MOVE HITS ROCKS.

Washington, Aug. 2.—The resolution by Senator Weeks for a congressional committee to supervise war expenditures similar to the provision in the food control eliminated because of President Wilson's objection was adversely reported to the senate today by the rules committee. Administration leaders are confident that the majority vote required to secure consideration of the resolution cannot be secured.

WILL SOON TAKE OVER ALL OCEAN GOING VESSELS

Washington, Aug. 2.—Plans for taking over for operation all American ocean going merchant ships soon will be announced by the shipping board. Charters will be requisitioned under a recent act of congress authorizing the president to commandeered tonnage for government uses. The program is preliminary to putting into operation an agreement the American and British governments for joint control of the world's shipping. It will give the shipping board control of ocean freight rates charged by American ships and a rate basis being worked out for an international rate schedule.

BAKER ASSERTS THERE HAS NOT BEEN DISASTER

Washington, Aug. 2.—Untraceable rumors that some disaster had been met by the American forces brought from Secretary Baker today a denial and reiteration of the promise that news of any misfortune would not be withheld from the public.

“I have no hesitancy in saying,” said Secretary Baker, in a statement, “that not a syllable has reached the war department which would lead us to believe that any misfortune has attended our forces on land or sea and I can reiterate the pledge made some time ago that any such word will be instantly given to the country, subject only to the qualification that any military movements in process at the time be completed so as not to imperil the remainder of the forces involved.

“Let me repeat that no word has reached us which would justify any fear at this time.”

MANY SLACKERS REGISTERED ON FALSE ADDRESS

Washington, Aug. 2.—Hundreds of men in chief cities of the country, reports to the department of justice show, gave fictitious addresses for draft registration, and are now being sought by government agents. Bridges, vacant lots, streets that do not exist, and in some cases factory sites, were given as addresses by registrants who have disappeared. In a large number of cases prospects are not considered bright for finding the slackers.

The practice appears to have been more prevalent in the larger cities. Few cases of the sort are reported from communities having less than 100,000 population.

CREDITORS WILL MEET.

Judge Sol A. Wood, of this city, will go to Auburn Tuesday to attend a preliminary meeting of the creditors in the case of Bert Reasoner, a retail grocer, of Auburn, who has asked proceedings in voluntary bankruptcy. Several local wholesale dealers, creditors of Reasoner's, in this city, will also attend the meeting, according to Judge Wood.

CORN PRICES TAKE NEW TURN UPWARD

Report of Inadequate Rain Southwest Gives Boost to the Market.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—Corn prices took an upward turn today, influenced by reports indicating that relief which had been afforded by rains in the southwest and elsewhere was not so great as at first seemed to have been the case. Opening prices, which ranged from 96c to 101c, advanced with December at 101.50c to 101.75c, and May at 101.25c to 101.50c, were followed by a moderate general advance and then something of a reaction.

Unfavorable crop advices from the Dakotas gave some firmness to wheat prices. After opening 2c higher at $2.20 September, the market advanced to 22c and then fell back to 21.75c.

Increased rural offerings to arrive, especially from central Illinois, tended to make oats market relatively easy.

Provisions hardened after a little initial weakness.

ANOTHER DROP IN THE POTATO MARKET

Now Retailing at 35 Cents Per Peck—Corn Remains Steady.

Another decline of five cents per peck was noted in the price of potatoes Thursday morning, retail dealers quoting a price of 35 cents per peck. The supply of the new potatoes is encouraging and a further reduction is looked for. Eggs also dropped slightly, now retailing for 35 cents per dozen. Corn remained practically stationary, although the price on the city scales was one cent a bushel lower than on the preceding day. Five loads were sold at $2 to $2.05 per bushel. Only ten loads of new hay were weighed Thursday, compared to thirty-two on the preceding day. The price obtained was $9 to $12 per ton. Four loads of the old hay sold at $18 to $17. Nine loads of oats were sold at 75 and 76 cents per bushel.

The junior choir of the Methodist church spent Wednesday with Rev. Charles Tinkham and family at Rome City.

The drone bees do not work. They are the royal consorts. They fertilize the eggs after which they soon die and are killed. The queen bee lives in the hive and never departs from it except at swarming time. If she is removed the whole swarm will follow her. If more than one queen bee is found in the nest they fight among themselves until only one survives. The survivor becomes the queen of the colony. The only exception to this is when a colony becomes too large for the one queen to rule when another queen is grown and a new home is prepared. On the new queen's appearance the old queen leaves the hive followed by a part of her workers.
